

Air Force Trying To Catch Capsule Out of Satellite

Important to Man's Initial Space Flight

Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. —(AP)—Air force crews make another stab today at man's first midair catch of an object from space—a capsule hurled from a satellite.

On their success—now or later—hinges the first American venture of a human being beyond the earth's atmosphere.

The 300-pound capsule will be ejected from the satellite Discoverer VIII which rocketed into orbit from this west coast base yesterday.

Planes are poised for a snag attempt as the capsule parachutes down over the Pacific ocean. Ejection is set for the satellite's seventeenth orbital pass.

Frustrated on four earlier attempts, air force officials said they will keep trying until they clear this hurdle. Once a catch is made, the next logical step would be to send a monkey up in a satellite, then try to bring him back alive.

Planes, Boats Wait

It's all intended to pave the way for a man's round trip in orbit.

The satellite is orbiting the poles at distances ranging from 120 to 1,000 miles from the earth.

It was blasted aloft by a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile shortly before noon. Only the 17-foot second stage, weighing 1,700 pounds, went into orbit.

Hawaii-based C-119 Flying Boxcars will use trapeze-like devices to try to catch the parachute. If they miss, boats will hunt for the capsule.

Odds for a successful catch are admittedly slim. One official explained its importance like this:

"Capsule recovery is a crisis point in our man-in-space program. Recovery from orbit has never been accomplished, by us or Russia. Until we can establish the technique we will never send a man into orbit because we have to be sure we can get him back."

Youth Admits Shooting 3 In Farmhouse

Troy, Mo. —(AP)—A young man, his teenage wife and her sister were shot to death in a farmhouse near Troy yesterday.

Alfred Mario (Pat) Corradi, 18, a laborer, told police he killed them, but said he didn't know why.

The dead are Leroy Albert Kappel, 25, employee of a St. Louis stove manufacturer; Kappel's wife, Mary Sue, 18; and her sister, Rosetta Willis, 17, of East Prairie, Mo.

Corradi was charged with first degree murder in each of the three slayings. Prosecutor Peter Grewach said this is the story he told:

Corradi, who referred to the Kappels as friends, went to the farm house, taking hamburgers and French fries. In the living room, he shot Kappel, then went to the kitchen and shot the women.

Then he drove to the St. Louis suburb of Jennings and told his girl friend what he had done. His girl friend's mother called police. They phoned the state highway patrol, which sent troopers to the farm house. Police followed with Corradi.

Tried to Escape

Grewach said the hamburgers and French fries had been only partly eaten, and shells from a .22 caliber rifle and .38 caliber revolver were "all over the place."

Deputy Sheriff Jack Stewart said the living room showed signs of a struggle, and it appeared the women were fleeing when they were shot. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Troy is about 60 miles northwest of St. Louis and the farm 13 miles northeast of Troy.

GOP Criticized To Democrats As 'Old Fogeys'

Sen. Humphrey and Gov. Williams Main Speakers

Toledo, Ohio —(AP)—Republicans were called "the party of the old fogeys" last night as two top-ranking Democrats urged a bold, original approach to the nation's problems.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) extolled the youthful ideas of the Democratic New Deal in the 1930s and used the term "old fogeys" in describing the Republican party.

"It's a sign of middle age," Humphrey said of GOP leadership, "when the obstacles loom larger than the challenge of overcoming them."

He spoke to 1,500 delegates attending the National Young Democratic Clubs of America convention.

Not at Dead End

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan suggested Democrats base their thinking in 1960 on adventurous, experimental and take-a-chance ideas.

The Republicans, he said, "would have us think that we have come to a dead end and therefore should be happy with what we have and enjoy it while we can."

"We have not come to a dead end," he declared. "We are on the frontier of a new era of possibility."

Harry S. Truman will close the 3-day conference with a banquet speech tonight. The former president will be grand marshal of a parade of Young Democrats through the downtown section today.

Truman said he hoped there wouldn't be any "catfights" started over the Democratic presidential nomination. At the news conference he shared with Humphrey and Williams the former president indicated he would not express a preference for any one candidate until he casts his vote at the national convention in Los Angeles next July.

"If I am a delegate," he added: "My whole idea is to keep the Democratic party in shape so we can win."

Upheld in Warning of Highway Speed Trap

Hopkinsville, Ky. —(AP)—A sign by motel owner Joe Noffsinger reading: "Warning, speed trap operated by local parasites," will stay up at nearby Crofton.

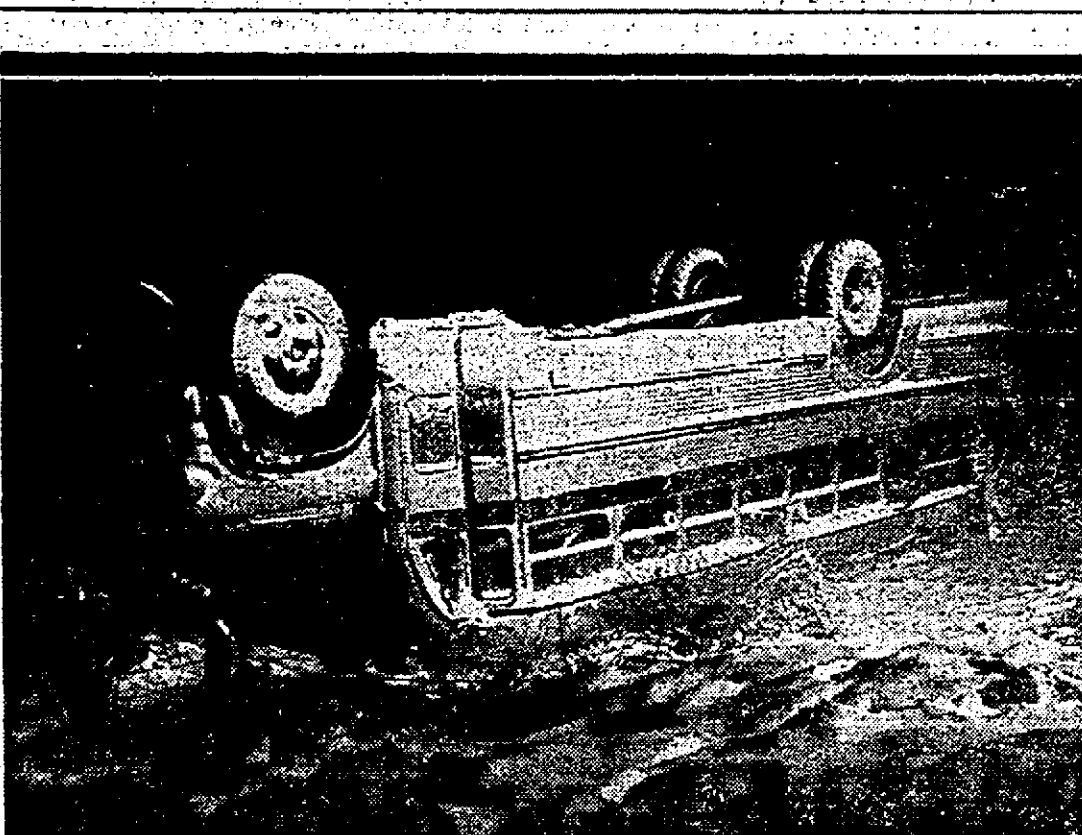

Circuit Judge Ira D. Smith ruled yesterday freedom of speech permits Noffsinger to maintain the sign and a similar one.

A 6-year-old William Munday complained "the signs are hurting business. Motorists refuse to stop even to buy gas."

Noffsinger commented: "I intend to see this thing through. When Crofton officials start doing right, I'll do right."

Crofton is on U. S. 41 in southwestern Kentucky.

Military Budget Needs Mapped for President

Ten of the 49 Pupils in this New London school bus were injured, only one seriously, when it overturned on County Trunk D near New London. Warren Ullman, bus driver, told police, he attempted to avoid a crash with a car that was out of control on the icy highway at the Jess Lathrop hill.

10 Pupils Hurt When Bus Tips; Hunter Killed in Auto Crash

Milwaukeean Is 14th Winnebago Road Fatality; 10 Youngsters Hurt

A New London school bus overturned and a Milwaukee hunter's car slid into the path of an oncoming car as the snow-covered highways in the Fox Cities area were the setting for a rash of accidents Friday night.

All but one of the 49 pupils in the bus escaped serious injuries. Nine others had minor injuries. The hunter was killed almost instantly.

Reinold A. Wolk, 56, was on his way north for a weekend of hunting when his car slid into the path of a skidding south-bound car driven by Ronald H. Voeltner, 19, Berlin, on Highway 41 near the Valley Airways about 10 p. m. Friday.

Wolk died of a severe skull fracture.

Winnebago county police said the Voeltner car slid 25 feet into the Wolk car that had skidded into his lane of traffic. The Voeltner car struck with such impact that the right side of the Wolk car was pushed in until it almost touched the left side.

14th County Death

Wolk was pronounced dead on arrival at Theda Clark hospital, Neenah. It was the fourteenth traffic death in the county this year. Voeltner received a cut lip and cheek laceration. He was hospitalized for observation.

The New London bus accident occurred about 4:15 p. m. Friday on the Jess Lathrop hill on Waupaca County Trunk D near New London.

Warren Ullman, the bus driver, was uninjured.

Predicts Rocket To 'Visit the Sun'

Mexico City —(AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan says Russia is preparing to increase its space missile lead over the United States by launching a rocket "to visit the sun."

Mikoyan, the highest Soviet official ever to appear in a Latin American country, told a dinner given in his honor by city officials last night that Russia has surpassed the United States both in the scientific and in economic areas.

"Who gave the United States a monopoly on occupying first place in the world?" he demanded.

Parcel Post Rates to Be Increased Soon

Washington —(AP)—Parcel post rates will go up soon, but most likely after the Christmas mailing rush is over.

An $88 million a year increase was approved by the interstate commerce commission yesterday. This averages to a 17.1 per cent boost over current rates.

The post office said it would announce next week when the new rates go into effect. Reports were that officials would give the public at least a 60-day notice.

The increases will vary according to the size of the package and the distance it has to go. Small items going a short way will shoulder the biggest boosts. There will be reductions for some of the biggest packages heading for long trips.

Army, Air Force and Navy Secretaries See Eisenhower in Georgia

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Augusta, Ga. —(AP)—The secretaries of the army, navy and air force had their chance for a final say on the new military budget in a conference today with President Eisenhower.

The president called them in from Washington for a meeting in his working quarters at Augusta National Golf club.

The delegation included Deputy Sec. of Defense Thomas S. Gates, Jr., Army Sec. Wilber M. Brucker, Navy Sec. William Franke, Air Force Sec. James H. Douglas, and the Pentagon's research chief, Dr. Herbert F. York.

Eisenhower is striving to wrap up his entire budget for the 1961 fiscal year in advance of his overseas good will tour starting Dec. 3. It looks as if the budget may hit a peacetime record high of $81 billion.

Conference Nov. 30

Another prelude to the trip to 11 European, Asian and African nations will be a conference Nov. 30 in Washington with Democratic and Republican leaders in congress.

This is Eisenhower's substitute for what he says is an impractical proposal by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) that a top Democrat, such as former President Harry S. Truman go along on the good will expedition.

Wayne Hawks, acting White House press secretary, told a news conference yesterday that invitations to the briefing at a White House breakfast went by telegram to five Democrats and four Republicans.

In the senate, Eisenhower sent bids to Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas), Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.), the Democratic chairman of the foreign relations committee, Sen. J. W. Fulbright (Ark.), and the senior Republican on the committee, Sen. Alexander Wiley (Wis.).

The house members are Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Texas); Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.); Republican Leader Charles E. Halleck (Ind.); and, from the house foreign affairs committee, Democratic Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (Pa.) and the top Republican member, Rep. Robert B. Chipfield (Ill.).

Idle 116 Days

The union struck most of the nation's steel plants for 116 days. Early this month they were forced back to work by a court order under the Taft-Hartley law. After 80 days they are free to strike again if a settlement is not reached in the meantime.

Goldberg wrote, "While I have not abandoned hope that a settlement in steel will be reached before the 80-day injunction expires, I must advise you in all candor that at the present writing no settlement is in prospect."

"Surely the defense of this country should not rest on a gamble that hopes for a settlement in the 80-day injunction period will be realized."

Man Expects Daughter, Son From Lithuania

Washington —(AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev apparently is keeping at least one personal promise to allow some Lithuanians to join their American relatives here. Other Khrushchev pledges may still be honored.

Paulius Leonas, a Chicago

real estate broker, said today he has heard from his son and daughter that they will be allowed to come to America soon.

"It's possible they may come before Thanksgiving," Leonas said. "Wouldn't that be a big turkey? They'll be here before Christmas any way."

Kept From Returning

The fiery fountain was still shooting as high as 800 feet on the eighth day of its eruption. U. S. geological survey officials measuring the lava level at the bottom of the crater—which spread into a 100 acre lake—said the lake is nearly 300 feet deep.

5 of Family Become Ill Seek to Learn Source Of Mystery Poisoning

Covina, Calif. —(AP)—The mysterious arsenic poisoning of a family of six has investigators baffled.

Five of the six have become police agents, where is the poison coming from?

Mrs. Mary Holt, 27, started suffering stomach cramps, leg pains and a high temperature—the symptoms of arsenic poisoning—last May, five months after they bought the house. After three weeks in a hospital, she came home cured.

Now she's ailing again. One by one, the children have come down with the same thing, sheriff's officers say. They are Ben, Jr., 10; Mary Darlene, 7; Cynthia, 5, and Constance, 4.

Holt, 31, is a baker. Officers said his system was found to contain 30 milligrams of arsenic, compared with 300 milligrams in his wife's body.

The health department checked the family's pots and pans without success.

Authorities recalled the arsenic poisoning of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce in Italy three years ago. The arsenic was traced to paint on her bedroom ceiling.

A physician said Mrs. Holt and the children are not in any immediate danger from the poisoning.

Sheriff's officers said they have no reason to suspect foul play but are not ruling out the possibility. Holt said he knows of no enemies.

"I believe it's in the house somewhere, maybe in the paint," he said.

Why don't they move? "I can't afford to," he said. "I'm paying $80 a month for the house, and I lost my car after my wife had to stop working. We're trying to make ends meet."

Wider Base Sought In State Tax Levies

Revision Committee Moving Slowly Toward Inevitable Rise In Future Public Expenditures

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The state administration's citizens commission on tax revision Friday seemed to move a little closer to the view that tax reform in this state must recognize the probable growth of public expenditures and must thereupon rely upon a broadening of the public revenue base.

Commission members spent a long day in general discussions, sometimes sparring with each other, sometimes wary of the political repercussions of their work, but generally leaning toward the conclusion that radical surgery will be required for the refashioning of the traditional income tax-property tax pattern.

Most significant development of the day was the declaration of James Doyle, a leading Democrat, friend of Gov. Nelson and vice-chairman of the study group, for higher taxation of lower income brackets through the traditional income tax.

Doyle's proposal was written, and labeled "tentative."

But in his oral discussion he indicated that he may later support a "progressive" sales tax for the same objective, remarking that it is up to those who favor that alternative to defend such an innovation. He observed also the regrettable fact that some persons and organizations have tended to consider the sales tax without regard to fiscal needs and tax problems.

Evidently with some fellow partisans of the Democratic party organization in mind, Doyle said he "wouldn't be afraid of a progressive sales tax." The committee has discussed a sales levy that would provide credits for consumers according to the size of their families through the medium of income tax refunds or concessions.

Friday's session was devoted to point-by-point review of tentative conclusions of a series of sub-committees, virtually all of which emphasized that the grafting of a new tax system into the state-local scheme must contemplate local property tax relief as well as the bridging of prospective state treasury deficits.

Cut Property Tax

Although there has not yet been a vote by the committee, it is apparently conceded that the report will urge the sharp reduction of personal property tax levies.

Several members of the committee showed some impatience about committee delays, but President Miller Upton of Beloit college, chairman of the group, says he prefers deliberative study.

Upton set the date for the next meeting for Dec. 21. In the meantime, sub-committees will continue to work, and will be expected to come up with recommendations that can be submitted to a vote at the next session.

(Gov. Nelson originally planned to have the legislature consider the committee's findings at its present adjourned session, but later asked the law-makers to adopt stopgap revenue measures now, pending the expected final report in the spring. Some legislators, including leading Republicans, favor the deferral of the Nelson stopgap bills until the commission's final report is filed, arguing that Nelson's tax measures are not intended to become effective until Jan. 1, 1961.) Preliminary discussions have shown that there may be majority and minority reports on some of the details in the final recommendations.

Mayor Stanley Greene of Sturgeon Bay, immediate past president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, has served notice that he will resist any proposals for repeal of present local taxes or changes in state-shared taxes without a positive assurance of revenue replacement.

James Martineau, Oconto lawyer, has repeatedly demanded that the committee work toward a reform in the personal property tax through the extension of the levy to intangibles — such as stocks and bonds — rather than for a repeal of the tax. Other members have favorite convictions about taxation of business and agriculture, the sharing of the state income tax receipts, the distribution of utility taxes and many other topics.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Recently in the hospital I mentioned to my doctor that I had gall stones. He took X-rays and found them. Although the gall bladder hasn't bothered me for years, he wanted me to operate immediately. I said no. He said I made the wrong decision. So what would you advise?"

—Mrs. W.M.T.

It's been quite some time since I've discussed this problem. When I did, I used the term "silent gall stones."

When gall stones form and cause pain, you know they are there. (I can hear people who have experienced them saying, "Oh, how you know they are there!")

There are different ways by which gall stones can cause distress. One way, and the one that brings sudden and very sharp pain, is when a stone gets into the duct, or tube, leading from the gall bladder, and sticks there. Usually it hurts like the very mischief. Sometimes the stone finally works its way through, and then comes blessed relief.

Cause Other Troubles

On other occasions, it remains solidly lodged, and has to be removed by surgery.

However, gallstones can cause other mischief. They do not dissolve. It would be great if only we knew of some way to dissolve them without dissolving the patient as well.

If the stones lie quietly in the gall bladder for a considerable length of time, they can, eventually, irritate and inflame it and provide an area in which infection can set in.

Obviously this can be a serious condition. There are varying degrees of it, as is the case with most illnesses. But an acute attack can be both painful and a menace to health. It is worth mentioning that long-continued irritation of this sort is believed to contribute to cancer of the gall bladder. It may not be common, but it does occur.

Agrees With Doctor

Anyway, here's the point. Gall stones can be present and not cause any trouble for long periods — "silent" gall stones. Yet, since the stones will not dissolve, and have no other way of escaping except by the painful process of being forced through the duct, sooner or later they are pretty sure to cause trouble, and perhaps serious trouble.

That is why your doctor proposed removing them now. And that is why I agree that he is right. You have nothing to gain by waiting, and you might have a great deal to lose.

Change Position

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a baby's head become flat on one side if the baby lies on that side most of the time? This baby is 11 months old. Her head looks longer on one side and sort of flat. Will it round itself out all right or is she too old?" — T.S.

Yes, some flattening is possible. The best and simplest solution is to change the position of the baby's bed to the other side of the room so the location of the light, windows, wall, will be reversed and she will start facing the other way. Almost universally the problem corrects itself; if you are dubious, ask yourself how many people you know who are flat-headed on one side!

Doctor Disagrees

Note to J.L. and V.E.S.: I don't believe that wonderful results are to be obtained by drinking large quantities of vegetable juices. Certainly I would not expect this to be of use in arthritis. My answer is to eat normal quantities of fruits and vegetables,

Searchers Fail to Find 3-Year-Old

Skin Divers, Planes Join in Effort At New London; Drowning Feared

New London — The search for Gregory Fischer, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Fischer, 1118 N. Water street, is being continued today after an extensive air, land and water search Friday failed to reveal his whereabouts. He is presumed drowned in the Wolf river behind his home.

Chief of Police Harry D. Macklin, heading the operations, said Friday that although it is believed the boy fell into the river, other possibilities are being investigated.

Two Appleton skin divers, Frank R. Pierri, 1016 W. Summer street, and Harold J. Engerson, 1517 E. Marion street, a member of the Appleton police department, covered about 500 feet of river bottom Friday.

The divers, assisted by a group of volunteers, who cut holes in the ice, reported they had good vision in the icy water and that if the body had been in the area they would have found it.

Stretch Carp Seine
Chief Macklin said a carp seine from Buck's Fish camp has been stretched across the river about one mile downstream from the Fischer home. Skin divers are scheduled to look at the net Tuesday.

The police department also organized an extensive search of the immediate neighborhood and the surrounding area. Richard Bucholtz, former chief of police at Waupaca, was in charge of a group of men who visited nearby houses and sheds. Residents were asked to look in every room of their homes.

Youth, 19, Arraigned For Robbery

Second Green Bay Man to Appear In Court Monday

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The first of a pair of young men arrested for two recent major crimes here was arraigned in municipal court Friday afternoon.

Richard Dale Hannon, 19, Green Bay, was charged with armed robbery of the Swan club and a night burglary at Rathbun's Sport store.

Hannon's partner, Roger John Dury, 25, Green Bay, is scheduled for arraignment Monday. A warrant names him with the same two counts as Hannon, plus a count of auto theft for stealing a car at the garage where he worked for use as the getaway vehicle for the hold-up at the DePere tavern.

$2,500 Bond
Hannon, represented by Atty. Robert H. Flatley and Donald Galloway, requested preliminary hearing during his arraignment Friday. Municipal Judge Donald W. Gleason scheduled the hearing for Nov. 30 and set bond for Hannon at $2,500.

The younger of the pair appeared at sheriff's department headquarters after a learning authorities were seeking him Thursday night. The other man, Dury, walked out of his police-surrounded second-floor apartment early Friday morning without incident after earlier boasting to Hannon he would shoot it out with anyone who attempted to capture him.

The holdup Nov. 10 netted them $209, they said, although the total reported to authorities the night of the robbery was $248. None of the cash was recovered.

The men took firearms and ammunition, plus hunting knives, from the sport shop two nights earlier. Valued originally at around $900, all the loot reportedly is recovered. Except for three pistols in Dury's rooms at the time of his capture, the rest was hidden off an isolated road in the Bay beach area.

Truck, Two Cars Involved In Accident

Waupaca — A semi and two cars were involved in a non-contact accident about 8 p.m. Friday on Highway 54 about one mile east of the White Lake road.

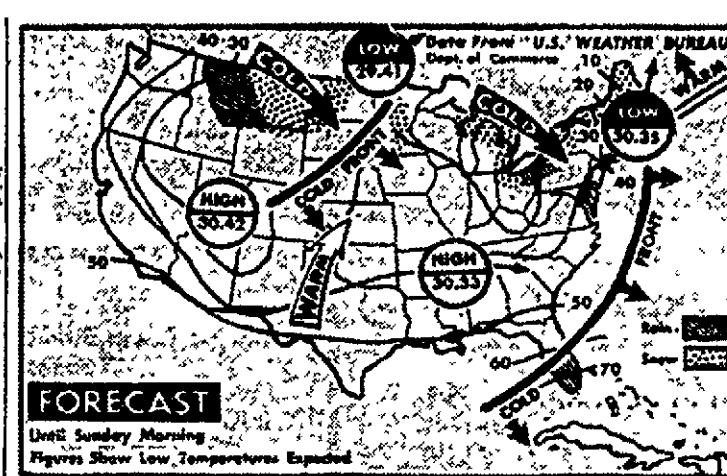

All three vehicles were going west when the truck, according to Lyle McCully, Waupaca county policeman, swerved out of control and jackknifed in the middle of the road. Frederick R. Lammert, 824 S. Chestnut street, Green Bay, following the truck, set his brakes and skidded into the ditch on the left side of the road, hitting a fence post.

Kircher Desorcy, Stevens Point, who was following the Lammert car, skidded into the ditch on the right side of the road, hitting a utility pole.

Waldemar H. Will, route 3, Waupaca, was the driver of the truck. Damages exceeded $500.

Junior 4-H Leaders Invited to Party

Oshkosh — Junior 4-H leaders of Winnebago county have been invited to a junior leader party being sponsored by the Waushara and Green Lake county groups at 8 p.m. Saturday evening, Nov. 28, at the Berlin High school. Mixer games, folk and square dancing and refreshments are being planned.

Light Snow Mixed With Rain is forecast for upper lakes, eastern part of upper and middle Mississippi valley and the northern Rockies tonight while rain and showers are predicted for the north Pacific coast and southern Florida. Continued cold is in prospect for New England and colder temperatures are due over the southern Rockies and Arizona. It will be warmer along the middle and south Atlantic coast, the Gulf coast and Oklahoma.

Snow, Rain Cover State

Floods Forming in Pacific Northwest After Wet Weather

More snow fell in central Wisconsin Friday night while there was freezing drizzle in the northern two-thirds of the state and rain in the south.

The drizzle and snow resulted in slippery highways. Except for the area north of U. S. 8, roads in Wisconsin were in good driving condition today, the state highway department said.

Slippery conditions existed in the north section because of snow and mist during the night but rising temperatures were expected to provide a normal driving by mid-morning, the department added.

The heaviest amount of new snow was four inches in Appleton, and three inches at Oshkosh. Green Bay reported two inches and an inch fell at Eau Claire. Rainfall totals were minor.

30 at Grantsburg
Temperatures Friday ranged from 30 at Grantsburg to 37 at Milwaukee and were 2-7 degrees below season normals. Overnight minimums were as much as six degrees above average, ranging from 22 at Lone Rock to 31 at Green Bay.

At 8 a.m. today fog that had gathered in the Green Bay-Oshkosh area was beginning to dissipate. Elsewhere, skies were cloudy but there was no precipitation reported.

The low in the nation overnight was 1 below zero at Caribou, Maine. The high Friday was 88 at Thermal, Calif.

Northwest Wet
Rain drenched the Pacific northwest for the fifth straight day today.

Civil Defense units began evacuating farm families from lowland areas northwest of Seattle where the Homish river rolled five feet above flood stage.

Fifteen families were moved to high land in the Arlington, Wash., area, north of Seattle, when the Stillaguamish river spilled over a dike. Flooding also was reported in lawlands in western Washington.

Authorities counted one death in a rock slide touched off by the downpours.

Chance Seen for Return of State Bounty Program

Lawmakers Returning for Fall Session Report Heavy Pressure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Rural pressure for a restoration of a state wild animal predator bounty program has a fair chance of success in the new session of the state legislature.

Democratic state administration leaders succeeded in side-tracking the issue during six months of legislative deliberations earlier this year, after Gov. Nelson had deleted bounty money from his own executive budget bill.

Control Program

But lawmakers returning for the fall session, and especially those from northern and north central districts, report that they are under heavy pressure to "do something" to reduce the population of predators and especially foxes.

The state during most of the last half century has had some kind of a predator control program, mostly in the form of bounties, although during

Find Less Night Hunting For Deer

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — There is probably less illegal night hunting of deer in upper Wisconsin than most sportsmen have supposed, according to the impressions of a special patrol of state wardens that worked recently on a special assignment in northwestern Wisconsin.

Patrolling at night, the crew was assigned to catch night hunters and to determine the amount of illegal hunting that may be taking place in a typical district. They used five radio-equipped cars and portable radios on foot.

"However, the wardens found that there is not nearly the amount of deer shining going on before the hunting season as the average person would think there is," said a report in a departmental bulletin addressed to department employees.

The sale of Christmas trees in Wisconsin is big business.

There are a number of laws which regulate persons engaged in it.

A Christmas tree dealer's license is required for any person who transports Christmas trees for sale from one county into another.

This does not prohibit an individual from buying a tree or two in one county and transporting it to his home in another county.

The attorney general has ruled that trees may be shipped as gifts in less than commercial quantities without a license, and it has been determined that more than six or their equivalent constitute a commercial shipment.

No license is required to sell the trees within the county in which they were cut, either by a dealer or producer.

Nothing in the law prohibits a person traveling in the north from buying a Christmas tree from a landowner or a roadside stand and transporting it to his home in another county or a different part of the state. However, it is advisable for a person buying a tree along the highway to ask the vendor for a receipt or bill of sale. There is quite a campaign by all law enforcement agencies to crack down on illegal cutting of Christmas trees, which in most instances amounts to plain vandalism and larceny—and you do not want to become a suspect.

Wisconsin Project

Seek Location of All Record Elm Trees; Plan Special Protection

Madison — The Wisconsin conservation department is cooperating with the state department of agriculture in locating all record American elm trees in the state as a preliminary to earmarking them for special protection against Dutch elm disease.

Harold F. Williams of the state department of agriculture has pinpointed eight American elms in the Badger state which rate better than three hundred points on the American Forestry association's scale for bigness.

The largest is located on property owned by Milwaukee County on the west bank of the Menomonee river in Wauwatosa. It is about a quarter-of-a-mile north of North Avenue at 100th street.

Measuring System

Under the measuring system, which is based on circumference, height, and crown spread, the Wauwatosa elm rates 372.25 points. Although it has the highest point total, it is only second in circumference and crown spread, and third in height in the state.

Other giant trees in the order of their size were located in the following spots by Williams:

The William Wopat farm near Elroy in Vernon county.

The J. N. Farrell farm near Steuben in Crawford county.

The Ferdinand Jorns farm near Egg Harbor in Door county.

The Harrison Buttenhoff farm near Monroe in Green county.

The C. H. Wellers residence, 995 West Highland street, Whitewater.

Two other big trees in the state have been disqualified from the Forestry association classification by wind and power saw damage. Both are located in Richland county, one near Blue River and the other near Gotham.

For the record books, the circumference of big trees is measured at 4 1/2 feet above the ground. The Vernon county tree is the biggest, measuring 21 feet 6 inches. The Milwaukee county specimen measures 20 feet 2 inches and one in Door county, 19 feet 3 inches.

Tallest Tree

The Crawford county elm is the tallest at 120 feet, the Door county tree next at 113, and the Milwaukee tree third at 103 feet.

The Whitewater elm has the largest crown spread with a span of 115 feet, followed by

Hunting Seasons Are Not Over Yet

Elsewhere on this page is a story from Madison which reports, among other things, that restoration of a state wild animal predator bounty program has a fair chance of success in the new session of the legislature.

It's no secret by now that my own personal belief is that Wisconsin should pay bounties on predators. Let me emphasize at the outset, however, that it is a personal opinion—nothing more.

Along with thousands of other sportsmen, I was dismayed when the legislature bowed to pressure from the conservation department game managers and eliminated the bounty payment program. Now the pressure appears to be coming from the other side of the fence. It will be interesting to see what the lawmakers will do.

—oOo—

Waupaca is the latest county to reestablish bounty payments on foxes. There are now 34 counties in the state making such payments. Many game clubs pay their own members for predator kills.

There can be no argument that the fox population has ballooned since the repeal of bounties. There also can be no argument that small game hunting has never been worse than it has the last two years. It must be more than simple coincidence.

—oOo—

Hunters planning to participate in the managed pheasant hunt at Horicon are reminded that the season is from Dec. 16 through Dec. 20. The small game hunting pamphlet erroneously lists the date as Dec. 12 through Dec. 16.

Much of the refuge, by the way, is under water so hunters should bring along the proper footwear.

—oOo—

If you are all through duck hunting for the year the time is right to remove your blinds from the waters. Regulations provide that it is illegal to place, throw or leave on the waters or ice of this state any cans, bottles, debris, refuse or other solid waste material. When you no longer have use for your blind it becomes solid waste material and must be removed.

—oOo—

One of the best bucks bagged by local bow hunters this fall was an 8-pointer downed by Louis Tremmel, 409 W. North Water street, Neenah. It was Tremmel's third buck with a bow. He hunted the Weyauwega area with Maurice Dyer and Bruce Page, both of Menasha.

Diplomatic Immunity

The matter of "diplomatic immunity" reached a new height of inappropriateness with the case of David Patrick Hearne, a student at American University in Washington.

Twenty-one year old Hearne is the son of the ambassador from Ireland to the United States. Five times David has been picked up by the police and five times he has pleaded diplomatic immunity due to his father's position. The last occurrence involved the death of a woman struck by his car. His father has now announced that his son will return to Ireland to continue his studies there.

Background reasons for this type of immunity of course involve the relations of nations and the difficulties of adjusting to the laws and mores of strange lands. But such problems were tossed aside as inconsequential when the status of forces treaties making American servicemen subject to the laws and courts of foreign lands were passed. American diplomats still have diplomatic immunity abroad; in most countries American servicemen do not.

The immunity clause is unjust on both sides. Young Hearne's previous escapades involved drinking and brawling. He may not be to blame for the traffic death as he says he swerved to avoid hitting another pedestrian. But there are few who will believe other than that he is an irresponsible scamp, coasting along on the position of his father and taking a great glee out of foiling American cops.

Obviously David Hearne should have been sent back to the old sod earlier. Neither his father nor our government has the authority to waive the immunity. But his former behavior should have prompted his dismissal before this. And, as far as international relations are concerned, the case of David Hearne will be recalled in Congress the next time status of forces treaties come up for ratification.

People Free to Spend as They Wish

The cleaning women employed in the public buildings of Hoboken, New Jersey, are demanding that salaries which the city proposes to pay for baseball players hired as recreational directors for the winter, be used instead to raise the pay of the charwomen. The women who are paid $2,700 a year for scrubbing floors and similar work are aroused over reports that four baseball players will each receive $4,000 from the city for a few months work in the winter.

Perhaps the women are entitled to more pay but it is difficult to see why the city should curtail employment of recreational directors to help the scrubwomen. Nevertheless these women have taken the same sort of argument that is frequently offered by governors and college presidents. People in high places often will declare that it is foolish to complain about money spent on education, for example, while the total educational bill is actually less than the people are spending on chewing gum and cosmetics. They seem to think that is a complete justification for any educational bill that happens to be less than the amount spent on more frivolous items. As a matter of fact there is no more relationship between the amount that people spend on chewing gum and cosmetics on the one hand and education on the other than there is between the wages of charwomen and those of recreational directors.

In this country it is one of the great blessings recognized by all that people are free to spend their money for anything they desire. When people want chewing gum more than they want education it is their right and privilege to buy chewing gum and in any quantities they desire. Likewise if the people of Hoboken wish to invest their public funds in recreational direction, that is their privilege and we gravely fear that the outcries of the charwomen will go unheeded unless they find a better argument.

How States Lose Their 'Rights'

Several months ago a Negro named Mack Charles Parker, accused of raping a white woman, was dragged from the jail at Poplarville, Miss., by a mob. Later his body, with several bullet holes in it, was found in a nearby river.

The FBI investigated the case to see if there had been a violation of the federal kidnapping law. It found no such violation but in the process of its investigation it developed strong evidence, including fingerprints — pointing to the members of the mob. It turned this evidence over to Mississippi Gov. J. P. Coleman who sent it to the authorities at Poplarville. But when the Pearl River county grand jury met at Poplarville last week, it adjourned without even looking at the evidence. As a result U. S. Atty. Gen. Rogers says his department is studying whether new federal civil rights legislation should be introduced in Congress.

We suppose the white people of Poplarville think they are getting away with something by thumbing their noses at the federal government and saying, in effect, that they will not prosecute any white man for lynching a Negro in their community. Actually, of course, they are simply inviting further federal interference in their local and state affairs with their bravado show of irresponsibility. Similarly, the officials in several southern states who have prevented Negroes from registering and voting have caused the U. S. Civil Rights commission to propose that federal registrars be sent into such areas to see that the Negroes' franchise is protected.

The people of the South constantly prate about "states' rights" yet they commit acts which are certain to eventually bring about greater encroachment by the federal government on those "rights." If they are really serious about protecting states' rights there is really only one way they can accomplish their purpose — by cleaning up the mess that exists in varying degrees in the administration of justice, the holding of elections and in public education throughout the South.

Sahara Oil Resources Could Change Middle East Situation

From The Los Angeles Times

Discovery and development of vast Sahara Desert oil resources are certain to play a growing part in the troubled relations between the free world and the leaders of the Middle East's oil-rich nations.

It may be that the highly promising Sahara picture could bring an end to the dominance by the oil-laden nations of this sphere of world politics.

And if the promise of the Sahara is fulfilled, the free nations not only will be able to shed the burden of dependence on the petulant rulers of Mideast oil but will be in a position to enter direct competition with them in the world oil market place.

Among the most significant developments recently has been the discovery of a potentially huge field in the depths of the Libyan Desert by Esso Standard Inc.

Two wells already are producing a total of 32,500 barrels a day and by the end of the year a total of 23 wells will be put down. Oilmen predict this discovery will rival the Middle East itself in total resources.

Not far away the French trans-Sahara pipeline joining the Hassi Massahoud oil fields with Bougie, a Mediterranean seaport, was put into operation this month and will be supplying 200,000 barrels a day to France by the end of the year.

France has a second pipeline under construction in Tunisia that will supply all French needs by 1962. France then is expected to start exporting Sahara crude to the United States and Canada in competition with the Middle East.

These discoveries and developments also assure the free world of a cheaper and safer continuing supply of oil because of shorter pipelines to seaports and a greater proximity to the markets of Western Europe.

Also, in the background is a worried Nasser, whose drive for dominance of the Arab world will be damaged when the free world no longer has to cater, hat in hand, to that group of Middle East rulers who are pro-Nasser — or anti-West.

The importance of Middle East oil, 62 per cent of the world's known resources, is not to be minimized. Because of it, the United States, still the world's No. 1 producer of crude, is able to hold back its production by 2 million barrels a day as a stockpile against a future emergency.

But it is encouraging to realize that competition is going to put the Middle East in its proper bargaining position in matters of every nature in the near future.

Work, Usefulness Answer to Teenagers' Cry for Activity

From The Montello (Wis.) Tribune

The following item was distributed to every pupil in a Watertown, S. D., school. It read as follows:

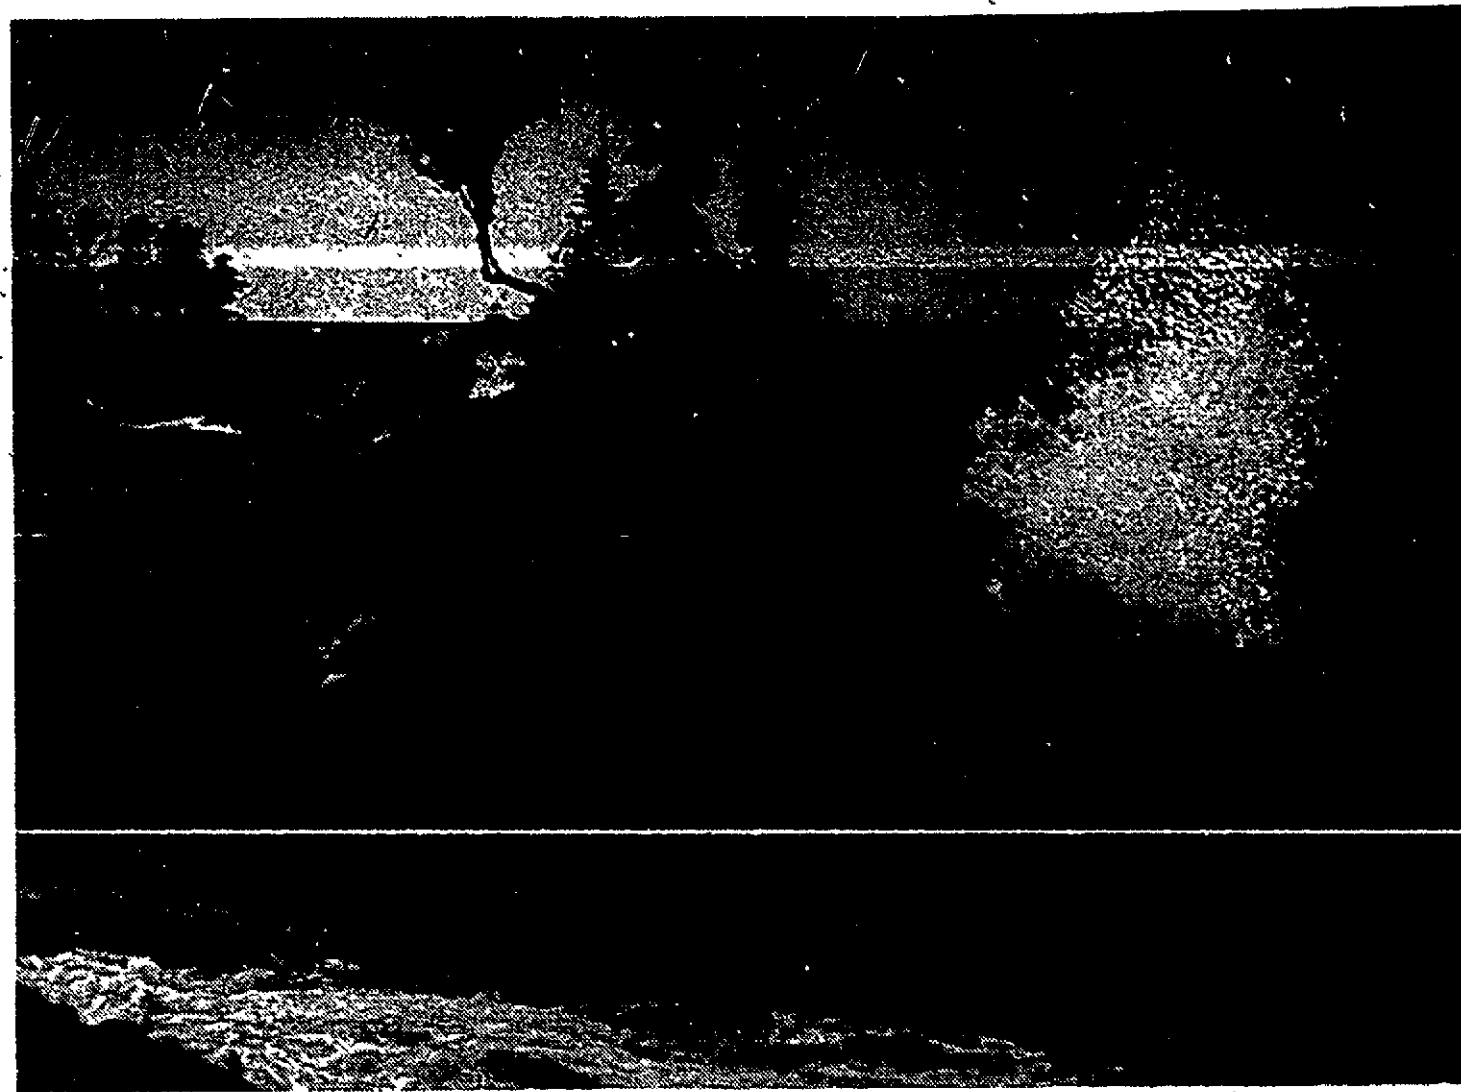

Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenagers: "What can we do? Where can we go?"

I can make some suggestions.

Go home! Remove the storm windows. Paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves. Mow the lawn. Learn to cook. Scrub the floors. Repair the sink. Build a boat. Get a job. Help your pastor, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Assist the poor. Study your lessons. And when you're through — and not too tired — read a good book.

You entertain me n t. The world does not owe you a living. Your village does not owe you recreational facilities. You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy, and your talents, so that no one will be at war or in poverty, or sick or lonely again.

In plain simple words: Grow up; quit being a cry baby; get out of your dream world; develop a back bone, not a wishbone; and start acting like a man or lady. I'm a parent. I'm tired of nursing, protecting, helping, appealing, begging, excusing, tolerating, denying myself needed comforts for your every whim and fancy, just because your selfish ego instead of common sense, dominates your personality and thinking.

Agree Fall Legislative Session a Mistake

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — A bored statehouse is in general agreement that the idea of returning the legislature to Madison for its current session was a mistake. Legislators themselves seem weary and d i s p i r i t e d. The galleries are empty. If the attitude of the representatives of the press can be relied upon there is a public indifference to this bobtail session.

How did it happen that the legislature is here, and likely to stay for weeks in political stalemate, when always before in the history of the state the lawmakers were able to conclude their main business in six to seven months starting in January?

On the record it is a result of the Democratic victory of last fall and Gov. Nelson's strategic plans of last spring that have gone sour.

The governor then didn't want to write a final tax or expenditures program, he said, because there was a need for study leading to overhauling of the fiscal machinery. The legislature after a little of the kind of political caterwauling that is inevitable went along with him. It arranged things so that there would be another session in the fall, to write a second year budget and to evolve finally a revenue plan. But the governor changed his mind, recognizing that the tax study task was greater than previously imagined.

WHAT NOW?

So now the legislature sits here in Madison, marking time, playing politics, wasting money, with every member within it aware that the whole affair was unnecessary, perhaps a blunder, perhaps an "error of judgment" as the governor with understandable understatement chooses to put it.

For the Democrats, as it turns out, this is a dangerous development.

The Republicans are given a chance to harvest political hay of the kind they cannot normally expect out of the local political system. They show every intention of harvesting to the utmost. The session will be drawn out for many more weeks, according to present signs, and almost surely what is now an apparent indifference on the part of the public will tend to transform itself into irritation or impatience at the shenanigans in the statehouse.

The recognition of that chance is what caused the Democrats in the lower house the other day, with almost desperate anxiety, to kill at a blow nearly 40 bills that had been held over from the session in July and which their sponsors, at the least, probably had a right to assume would be seriously deliberated, voted upon separately, with record roll calls resulting. That anxious piece of business, incidentally, may arise to haunt the state in the future because of the radical precedent it has created. Wisconsin has

The Fighting Tree

There it stands on that barren crag
Scarred by the storms of the past
Thrusting down its roots still deeper
After every wintry blast

Boldly it spreads its battered limbs
Scorning the winds of the years
Bravely fights for its chosen place
Defying the blast that sears

Boldly it faces each new day
And the frosts that come to kill
Bravely stands through the long night watch
That fighting tree on the crag

And so it is with men we know
They stand firm against the tides
They stand against the bitter strife
They flourish where trouble rides

When the battle rages 'round them
They fight like the knights of old
When others cringe in wild despair
They seek no sheltering fold

Up on the wind swept hills of time
They stand while the rabble flees
They stand and meet the storms of life been proud of its democratic, highly deliberative legislative process. The events of last Tuesday amount to a repudiation of the tradition and the reputation.

GOP SENATE

The Republicans are quite comfortable in the situation the Democrats have provided for them, exploiting their opportunities under the ground rules laid down by the opposition, in effect.

They can present a public appearance of calm deliberation of their own hold-over bills in the senate, of studious inspection of the governor's nominees for high office, and of serious public hearings, all the while delaying the proceedings to the probable discomfiture of the Democrats.

Meanwhile their instinctive disposition to lay over the governor's "stop-gap" revenue legislation is hardening into resolve, not only because they are pretty sure that voters are in no hurry to have new taxes levied, but also because they can quote the governor's repeated speeches about the need for basic tax revision against him in these circumstances.

Why tinker now, when the final revision job can be done a little later, they ask? The unprejudiced sideline finds it difficult to answer.

12 Million Years Old

'Abominable Coal Man' May be Missing Link

BY LYNN POOLE

The Johns Hopkins University

About three years ago a Swiss paleontologist, Johannes Hürzeler, startled the scientific world with the report that creatures belonging to the human line of evolution lived in Italy at least 12,000,000 years ago — more than 11,000,000 years earlier than any previously known animal with distinctive human characteristics.

Since 1956 bones of more than 60 of these animals have been taken from the soft coal layer of Tuscan in central Italy, including one nearly complete skeleton found on Aug. 2, 1958.

Seek Right Place Brought together at the Natural History Museum at Basel, Switzerland, these fossils have been studied carefully by Dr. Hürzeler and other scientists in an effort to fit the so-called "abominable coal man" into his rightful place in the scale of evolution.

American anthropologist William L. Straus, Jr., who has spent three summers in Europe studying these remains, recently returned from a detailed and systematic study of the new, almost complete skeleton of the creature which is named "Oreopithecus."

"By no stretch of the imagination," reporter Dr. Straus, "can it be classified as an Old World monkey or as an anthropoid ape."

After careful investigation, Dr. Straus, who is professor of anatomy and physical anthropology at the Johns Hopkins University, found numerous characters of the teeth, skull, limbs, and trunk that resemble characters belonging to the human line of evolution.

The oldest animal having man-like characters, known prior to Oreopithecus, lived no earlier than 750,000 years ago.

Actually, the first specimen of Oreopithecus — a lower jaw bone — was described in 1872. But there had been no agreement on how the animal should be classified. Some investigators have regarded it as an Old World monkey, others as an anthropoid ape, and still others as a link between these groups.

Once Large Marsh Hürzeler's efforts in collecting these specimens during the past three years have made it possible, finally, to get a good idea of where the creature fits into the evolutionary picture. Nearly all of the bones have been recovered from a lignite deposit at Baccinello, Italy, which at one time formed part of a very large marsh covering a considerable part of Tuscany.

From his studies Dr. Straus has been able to determine that the animal was about four feet high, and weighed a little less than 100 pounds. He has estimated that the brain of Oreopithecus was about the same size as that of the chimpanzee.

Pinning down exactly where this "abominable coal man" fits into the long pattern of evolution is a tough problem. Following up the trunk of the tree of evolution which eventually leads to man, there is one branch going off which leads to the Old World monkeys.

Further up the trunk is another fork. One branch is the line representing the anthropoid apes. The other branch is the line comprising man and his immediate forebears.

Line Leads to Man

Hürzeler himself first concluded that Oreopithecus belonged on this latter branch, and is thus the earliest known representative of the line that led to man.

Dr. Straus is less certain. He is sure that Oreopithecus is not on the line of the Old World monkeys, but that it must be classified as a member of the superfamily that includes the anthropoid apes and man. He has found that Oreopithecus possesses a number of characters which are similar to those belonging to the line that led to man. On the other hand, he found a lack of similarity to characters which distinguish the apes.

Dr. Straus believes that the animal belongs either on the branch leading directly to man, or on a closely related branch which previously was unknown.

"No matter how it is precisely classified," Dr. Straus commented, "the most important thing about this creature is that it shows us that human characters had begun to make their appearance as early as 12,000,000 years ago. This is more than 11,000,000 years earlier than any we had been able to find up to this time."

Looking Backward

Daily Post Suspends Publication

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Nov. 20, 1880.

Mr. Reid announces the suspension, for the present, of the Daily Post, which was doubtless started as a campaign edition, at least that was the principal feature of the paper, and it warmed it up to us very emphatically to say the least.

It is well known to the publisher that a daily could not be made to pay — at least without telegraph dispatches, and as that was an impossibility to secure, with but one wire, of course, it narrowed the field too much.

The fact is that the city is not large enough to properly support such a daily as a publisher would like to send out, for the dependence for support must rest almost entirely on the subscriptions and the profits therefrom are small indeed.

Mr. Reid has acted wisely in suspending the daily. Editorially he had expended honest and labored efforts upon it, and the Republican campaign committee ought to whack up to him for making it so much of a political sheet as it was about all the time.

The history of Thanksgiving through the last several centuries was told by Miss Minnie Rader at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Lutheran University association at the home of Mrs. G. D. Ziegler, Appleton.

Mrs. F. W. Clippinger was reader at the meeting of Over the Tea Cups club at the home of Mrs. L. H. Moore, Appleton.

The manufacture of paper was discussed by Henry Boon, general superintendent of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, at the meeting of the Men's club of the Methodist church.

Dr. Milton Townner of Lawrence college was to speak at the meeting of Fireside Fellowship of First Methodist church Sunday night at the church. His subject was to be How the Cult Performs Its Function.

The members of the county board were urging the building and grounds committee to have the electric clock system at the courthouse repaired. They pointed out that in going from one office to another — with each clock indicating a different time — they were at a loss to know what time it really was. And besides, the clock in the circuit courtroom, where the board sessions were held, was about 25 minutes slow and that often caused the sessions to go beyond noon — which was ordinarily the quitting time of the board.

Which One's Worse, Mosquito or Chigger?

From The Mobill Register

"Most of us tend to rank insects by the discomfort they give us," says the Dallas Morning News in commenting that although "we regard the chigger as one of our worst enemies because it causes itching," it is "almost harmless in comparison with the mosquito." That raises the question: Is itching to be dismissed so lightly?

In Good Taste Apartment Telephone Procedure

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Lately I have moved into an apartment house that has a telephone connection between each apartment to the street vestibule and a buzzer system that enables me to open the front door. Will you please tell if "Hello" is the proper way to answer this telephone when the bell rings?

Answer: "Hello" is never unsuitable, but it would be more practical to ask, "Who is it, please?" A friend then answers, "Mrs. Smith to see Mrs. Jones." Or if she recognizes your voice, she says, "Mary, this is Sally! Can you see me?" You then answer, "Yes, indeed!" and release the door. Or explain that you are hurrying to go out, or to finish something, and ask, "Won't you come tomorrow?" or whenever.

Either Way Right
Dear Mrs. Post: A guest in our house recently disposed of cherry pits by dropping them into her cupped hand and then onto the side of the plate. As this person is someone whose table manners I have never questioned, I feel that perhaps I have been doing the wrong thing all my life and accordingly, instructing my children incorrectly. We have always dropped the pits into the spoon and conveyed them to the side of the plate. Will you please tell me which way is the right one?

Answer: Either way is all right, but dropping the pits into the cupped hand is somewhat better table manners because less conspicuous.

Send Present
Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's sister's son is going to be married soon to a divorced woman. They are not having a reception of any kind. My husband thinks we should send a wedding present, but I do not feel that a wedding present is necessary under the circumstances. What do you think?

Answer: Whether they have a reception or not, you would be expected to send a wedding present to your husband's nephew.

Your Problems

Sister's Method of Bathing Children Irritates Nosy Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: My sister has two children, a boy, 2, and a girl, 3. She bathes them together in the bathtub. I think this is disgraceful and have told her so. She has asked me to mind my own business.

What is your opinion of such goings on? Ann Landers

My sister always was a hard-headed mule. Just because she took a course in psychology she thinks she knows it all. No one can tell her anything. Maybe you can set her straight.—BV

Dear BV: Authorities believe it is emotionally healthy for very young children to mingle in the unclothed state.

So—I suggest you take your sister's advice and mind your own business.

DEAR ANN: I'm a college freshman. A certain fellow has been taking all my time, neither of us goes with anyone else.

Bill never calls in advance for a date, even for the big parties—he just assumes I'm available. This makes me mad and he knows it. Please tell me (and hundreds of other girls who have this problem) what to do about it.

I've asked Bill a dozen times to give me a little notice, especially for the dressy affairs, but he still calls me in the morning and says "Tonight is the big dance. I'll pick you up at 8 p.m." What to do?—Zero Hour

Dear Zero Hour: You are being taken for granted and it's your fault. Circulate a bit and make other friends. Surely there must be one or two other fellows who would take you out.

The big change will come about the morning Bill phones to tell you he'll be by to pick you up for the party and you say "Sorry, friend, I've got a date. Next time please give me a little notice, will you?"

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959)

Old Paisley Shawl Makes Elegant Rug

Mrs. F. L. Donelson, an Appleton resident who finds it stimulating in being creative, has many examples of her tireless efforts in her home at 1226 W. Spring street.

A recent addition is a hooked rug made a few months ago from a paisley shawl owned by her great-grandmother. The rug is a 30 by 54-inch rectangle Blythe Shoals design. The off-white background sets off the blue and coral flowers in the center, surrounded by multi-colored scrolls. The scrolls are made from remnants of the red, green and yellow shawl.

Her great-grandmother, Mrs. Warren Cheney, who died in 1891 at 87, was a Michigan pioneer who traveled in a covered wagon from New York to settle in Genesee county, Mich.

Mrs. Donelson has memories of her grandmother and mother wearing the shawl, which was passed down through the families. Her great-grandmother used to wear it tossed over her shoulders when she would visit her children, Mrs. Donelson added.

Has Made Three Rugs
The spunky Mrs. Donelson has been living in Appleton for about a year and a half with her son, F. Dwight Donelson, who is executive director of the Valley council of Boy Scouts. Formerly she lived in Michigan and Rockford, Ill. This is the third rug she has made.

She attended rug making classes at Beloit college, about a 19-mile drive from her home, and now is enrolled in classes at the Appleton Vocational school. At present she is engrossed in making a hooked chair seat.

cut into very narrow strips and pushed through the pattern with a rug hook. The rugs or chair seats are durable and may be cleaned with soap and water. However, heavy brushing is not recommended as it may snag a piece of the material and pull it out.

Mrs. Donelson spent about six months on her rug. She started it last spring.

Attends Classes
Mrs. Donelson attends rug making class at the Vocational school on Tuesdays. On Thursdays she attends a hat designing class. Currently she is making a feather band hat, which is especially fashionable this fall. She also has made and remodeled fabric hats, veil whimsies and summer hats.

Besides her creative talents, Mrs. Donelson is musically inclined. At her home in Flint, Mich., she was active in musical ventures and sang in the church choir.

Mrs. Donelson has two other sons, one living in Flint and the other son in California. Among her other pastimes, she makes doll clothes for her only granddaughter. An interest in genealogy and antiques takes up the rest of her time, along with regular housekeeping chores.

Mrs. Donelson is a member of the Appleton Golden Agers club, which she attends regularly.

Mrs. F. L. Donelson Displays one of her three hooked rugs which she made while attending rug making classes in Appleton and Rockford, Ill., her former home. This rug was made from her great-grandmother's paisley shawl. The rug has an off-white background which sets off the colored flowers and scrolls. The scrolls were made from remnants of the shawl, which is about 125 years old.

Movies Need Arabian Girls

Honolulu.—A search for actresses of Asian ancestry needed for two Hollywood pictures has fizzled out.

Universal International pictures recently asked the University of Hawaii's department of drama and theatre to scout Hawaii for girls of Asian descent needed in the pictures.

One role is the female lead in "The Ugly American," opposite Marlon Brando. The other is the female lead in a picture as yet unnamed, set in the Pacific during World War II.

Professor Joel Trapido says he is sending the studio some photos of six girls who applied. He doesn't think any of them meet the studio's requirements.

Those who can act, aren't young enough; those meeting the physical requirements have had almost no acting experience.

Family Diary

Tommy and Sally came dashing in from school today, their faces glowing with cold and excitement. "They're having the Thanksgiving offering for the children's home at school tomorrow," they explained in unison. "May we have some cans to take?" They looked at me with some anxiety, and I will never understand this, for I have been cheerfully sending canned goods to school for years and years. I assured them they could.

Tommy's expression grew crafty. "I think I'd like to take some of our mustard sardines—especially mustard." "Oh fine," I said, "and you can pretend that you're the boy who's going to eat them." Tommy at once insisted that he was only kidding.

"What can we take?" Sally wanted to know. "Something good. Something you'd like to eat yourselves. Peaches are nice." I went on dreamily, for I could remember so clearly when I was a little girl and carried my Thanksgiving offering to school. I always chose to take peaches and I can remember the joy in my heart when I lugged those heavy cans, one under each arm.

"You may choose for yourselves," I said, feeling suddenly very gay. "Take what you like from the shelves in the pantry." Tommy eluded my grasp, but Sally cuddled against me. "There's to be a program too," she said, "and the parents are invited."

Kisses Sally. "I'll be there," I promised and kissed her firm, frosty little cheek. A child fresh in from school on a brisk winter day is excellent kissing material.

There was the usual mad scramble the next morning, and it wasn't until I was starting for school myself that I began to wonder if the children had remembered their cans. I vaguely recalled seeing a sack under Tommy's arm.

The program was a delight. The children had been transformed to Pilgrim mothers and fathers by the generous use of crepe paper bonnets and shawls, cardboard buckles and stick muskets. Proudly each marched in and added his offering to the mountainous pile of cans.

The spirit of charity was apparent in the very air. And that is a rare thing these days when most of our giving is a systematized, mechanized process; when church offerings are budgeted and receipts, and when community

Party Shelf Provides Unexpected Gifts

By Jeannette Griffith

At the end of the line, I could see them through the door to the corridor and breathed a sigh of relief. Both had cans.

Almost Faints. At last they reached the platform and unloaded not ten feet from where I was sitting. I almost fainted. In the zest of their generosity they had not overlooked my special party shelf. Tommy set down on the pile the three pound can of red Alaska salmon—a gift to John—that I have been hoarding for months. And then Sally produced the red tin box that held the huge, fancy fruit cake on which I had spent a terrible sum, justifying the expense by planning to have it see me through the entire Christmas entertaining season.

Tommy ignored my presence, naturally, but Sally looked at me and smiled. She looked proud and happy. I smiled back. It was only the initial shock that was so hard to take.

And it does give me a certain amount of satisfaction to think of those little orphans eating my luxury salmon and fruit-stuffed cake rather than Tommy's mustard sardines.

West opens the seven of spades, and the first player to duck picks up all the marbles.

Let's suppose that East makes the routine play of the queen of spades. South ducks.

That is, he plays his low spade, allowing East to win the first trick.

East returns the 10 of spades, and South wins a finesse with the jack. West follows suit with his last spade.

Now South has an easy time. He leads clubs to set up his ninth trick. If West wins the first club, he cannot lead a spade. If East wins the first club, he can set up his spades but cannot regain the lead to cash them. Either way South makes ten tricks.

East Should Duck. East can defeat the contract by ducking at the first trick. That is, he plays the nine of spades instead of the queen. This forces South to win the first trick with the jack of spades, for otherwise South would win only one spade trick.

East cannot lose by this play. West has opened his top spade, the seven, and it is clear that South must hold the missing high spades, ace-jack-eight. South is bound to get two spade tricks, and the only question is which side wins the first trick.

East wants South to win the first trick. That leaves one spade in West's hand. When South leads clubs, West steps up with the king of clubs and holds his other spade. East forces out the ace of spades and gets in with the ace of clubs in time to run the rest of the spades. This holds South to eight tricks instead of 10.

Church Women Initiate Clothes Lending Plan

Louisville, Ky. —(AP)—Imagine arriving in a cold climate with seven children to clothe after spending several years in equatorial Africa.

That's the problem a group of Presbyterian church women had in mind six years ago when they started The Mission Closet, a clothes-lending institution primarily for missionaries and their families.

"But the clothes aren't the type that come out of missionary barrels," emphasizes Mrs. Paul Kesler, chairman of the group.

"Missionaries usually spend their furlough time studying here and speaking at many churches," she says. "We try to provide clothing that will let them appear not just presentable, but better than average."

Often missionaries come here with clothing unsuited to the climate, she says. Or the style of dress common in the mission country may be out of place here. Sometimes the missionaries have large families.

The Mission Closet gets clothing donations from Presbyterian churches in Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and Missouri.

Most of the missionaries return the items for relending when their furloughs end, Mrs. Kesler says. However, they may keep the clothing if they wish.

The clothing also is made available to students at the Louisville Presbyterian Theological seminary and their families.

Missionaries passing through Louisville can shop at the free closet, too.

All clothing is put to use. Out-of-fashion or worn items are boxed and sent where they can be used.

Restaurateur Has Wall of Mementos

BY RAY KOHN

New York —(AP)—There is more than food in the Italian restaurant on East 58th street in Manhattan—there's food for thought in the hundreds of personal mementos of World War II hanging on the walls.

It all started when an Air Force officer, ending his leave and about to return to active duty, pinned his wings on the dress of Mrs. Laura Albertario, who now operates "Mama Laura's" with one of her two sons.

Mama remembers the officer only as a Col. Goldenburg. She wore his wings proudly on each change of costume. Several days later, James Halstead Ewing, then a Navy lieutenant commander and now a physician, noted the wings and asked: "What's the matter, Mama, don't you like the Navy?"

"Of course," exclaimed Mama Laura, "give me your insignia and I am wearing them too."

Insignia and medals came thick and fast. Servicemen and women began leaving a token with Mama for "good luck" before they went away. Mama began putting them on a section of restaurant wall, and now there are about 1,000 in a framed glass case. On another board are paper monies and coins from throughout the world.

Dozens of the men and women who left mementos have returned to the restaurant since the war. Among them have been Capt. Hans Christian Adamson, one of two survivors on the raft with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

Adamson penned a message to Mama, which reads: "To Mama, whose cooking would have been grand on the raft."

Dr. Ewing, a resident of Manhattan, is still a customer. So is Edward Black, husband of Shirley Temple, when he is in town. Black, a naval commander, left with Mama an insignia he'd taken from a Japanese soldier.

Mama was born in Bologna, Italy, where her mother had her own restaurant, and came to the United States during the Mussolini reign. It was here that she met and married the late Mario Albertario, who had been head chef of the Excelsior hotel chain in Italy.

PILGRIMS VS. PURITANS

Why was one group of zealots a quick success, the other nearly a casualty that first dreadful winter 339 years ago? Richard M. Ketchum's Thanksgiving time analysis of the forces that shaped our New England forefathers appears today in

New Husky Sweaters, patterned or plain, solve the gift problem this year for every man on your list. Above are two versions of the new brushed - knit blanket plaids, boat neck at left, lapped V-neck at right. Below is the Windjammer in bulky rib knit with lapped boat neck, available in seven colors.

Men Prefer Bulky-Knit, Rich-Colored Sweaters

Husky sweaters for he-men are at the top of old St. Nick's suggestion list this year. There's a rash of rugged, colorful sweaters in men's shops this winter, in the kind of bulky knits and easy styles that outdoor men prefer: Blanket plaids in brushed yarns are particularly in demand, available in both coat and pullover styles, with shawl collars, boat or V-necks.

The new sweaters go in for rich colors, suddenly in demand by even conservative males. Among the most popular are: duobonnet, blue, olive green, cognac, charcoal, heather, antique gold and of course black and white. Cable knits in solid colors are right for men of all ages, and are available in a variety of styles.

If you're buying a sweater for a man this Christmas, be sure to get it big enough. To be safe, buy a size larger than suit size, as it's important for these new husky sweaters to be roomy. Don't be afraid of color. Even if he always has stuck to black or beige, this year he'll probably go for a cognac and black combination, olive green or duobonnet. These colors look new and thoroughly masculine.

Although bulky, the new sweaters are light in weight, thanks to new developments in yarns. They provide warmth without weight for active men, and are ideal for the hunter, the fisherman, the golfer and the country weekender.

Varied Program

Miss Forrester's Voice Great, Reviewer Says

BY JACK HOLZHUETER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Maria Callas, the temperamental diva, complained recently: "My voice cannot go up and down like an elevator." Then she quit the Met.

Miss Callas should meet Maureen Forrester, a contralto whose range rivals a mezzo soprano's and who sang a program to prove it Friday night in the Lawrence Memorial chapel as the second in the Lawrence Community Artists series.

Miss Forrester stretched her voice from the pure simplicity of ancient English art songs, to the emotional torrents of Schuman's "Frauliebe und Leben," to the soft subtleties of Poulenc and Britten, to the casual, difficult, contemporary fun of Celius Dougherty, a Minneapolis boy who made good.

Pure, Full, Simple
A contralto without Miss Forrester's tremendous range could not have accomplished the variety, for she has no gap where full resonance is missing. She sings purely, fully and simply along the whole continuum of literature and scale.

In Britten's "Charm of Lullabies," the final two sections, "A Charm" and "The Nurse's Song," are what their composer implies. One can actually imagine a child falling asleep under their spell, but Miss Forrester need never fear the same fate for her audiences as she weaves the spell of perfection.

Dougherty Interesting
Celius Dougherty is a man who could not have composed 40 years ago. No one would have understood him, for he takes completely contemporary phenomena and molds them musically.

Dougherty was taken by the charm of a Chinese poem about the river K'e; he wrote a charming song around the poem. He was taken by the peculiar promptness of dictionary definitions; he wrote a peculiar song using a dictionary's overly simple description of "love." Children's e's a y's fascinate him; he wrote music to an essay, "The Bird (an owl) and the Beast (a cow)."

Such songs require a certain amount of high good humor, but simultaneously they are socially critical compositions. Miss Forrester knows this and imparts her knowledge to her audience. These songs are difficult to accompany, for the accompaniment is as much of a commentary as the song itself. Charles Reiner, who took John Newmark's place at the piano, was equal to the task.

Soprano Repertory
The first section of Miss Forrester's program contained soprano repertory songs which adapted themselves easily to her quality and range. Arranged by Dorums-gaard, a Norwegian musicologist whose specialty is the art song, they varied from the light, "What Thing Is Love," to the intense and velvety, "Sorrow, Stay."

The Schumann song cycle was, frankly, a trifle disappointing. That Miss Forrester knew whereof she was singing cannot be doubted. But there seem to be two schools of thought on the cycle. One is that Schumann can be sung as emotionally as possible. The other that Schumann vote to firm its hand in current negotiations with the nation's railroads.

He said he ordered general chairmen for the various carriers yesterday to distribute ballots to rank and file members on whether able chiefs shall be authorized to strike to enforce the union's contract demands.

Brown said the wage talks which began Sept. 12 are in stalemate. Brown said the engineers have asked the national (railway) meditation board to proffer arbitration in the dispute, but the board declined to enter the talks at this stage.

should be sung "straight," with little embroidery, letting the music itself pour forth, the belief being that Schumann's emotion is sufficient. Miss Forrester ascribes to the first school, this reviewer to the second.

Voice Equal to It
Nonetheless, her voice was more than equal to Schumann's immense demands of color and intensity.

Miss Forrester and Mr. Reiner performed Poulenc's "Le Travail du peintre" sensitively where necessary and brusquely where necessary — a combination hard to achieve in French music.

Two well-deserved encores completed the recital: "The Lass from the Low Country" arranged by John Jacob Niles, and "The Old Maid," a Kentucky folk song arranged by Howard Brockway.

Two Wounded On Season's Opening Day

Appleton Hunter Hit in Leg, Brillion Man's Gun Explodes

One man was shot by a 16-year-old boy and another man's gun exploded in his hands on the opening day of deer season in the Fox Cities area.

Walter Ehrlke, about 38, route 4, Appleton, is in good condition at Appleton Memorial hospital with a 20-gauge shotgun slug wound in his left leg. He was shot by John Henke, 16, of 872 Roosevelt street, Menasha, as they hunted on a farm between Black Creek and Shiocton, south of Highway 54, about 8:30 a. m. today.

Elmer Behnke, 35, Brillion, is in Calumet Memorial hospital, Chilton, with wounds to his right arm and armpit. His shotgun exploded in his hands when it was fired while packed with wet snow. He fired at a deer, three companions told police authorities.

Behnke was hunting in a public hunting ground about 14 miles southwest of Brillion about 7:15 a. m. today. With him were Gary Moore, 17, Brillion, and Richard Moore, 20, Menasha, his nephews, and Victor Churney, Brillion, his brother-in-law. The three took Behnke to the hospital.

Ehrlke was hunting with Henke and the youth's father, August, 38. Young Henke said he shot at a running buck through brush and did not see Ehrlke. He did not know if he hit the deer.

Lift Illinois Ban

Cranberry Stock of 5 Distributors Cleared

The cranberry stock of five Wisconsin food distributors has been cleared for sale, according to John H. Guill, Jr., chief of the Food and Drug Administration regional office in Chicago.

Guill said the distributors submitted samples for testing and none showed a residue of aminotriazole. The announcement came after some 600 tests by city, state and federal technicians of all known sources of cranberries.

Food stores began restocking their shelves soon after the announcement and housewives were assured of an ample supply in Chicago and through the state.

Both officials also assured housewives that any cranberries they may have in pantry or refrigerator also have been certified safe by the extensive sampling of lots.

The ban continues however, on some 10 million pounds of cranberries held in cold storage in Illinois and normally not used until spring for canning.

Also to be kept off the market is an 81,000-pound lot of frozen berries found Friday in a cold storage warehouse.

John H. Guill Jr., executive chief of the Chicago Food and Drug Administration, said the shipment was found to contain traces of the chemical but would not have been released to the public anyway.

He said none of the cold storage berries will be released for public consumption until all have gone through the testing process.

Standard said all cranberries coming into Illinois in the future must bear a tag of certification from a reputable laboratory or they will be seized and tested by the state.

The end of a 10-day ban in Illinois was announced by Stillman Standard, director of the state department of agriculture and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health. The

Driver Hurt As Car Skids on Curve, Hits Auto

Norman J. Coisman, 39, of 608 Pearl street, Seymour, was taken to a Green Bay hospital after his car was hit by a skidding car driven by Kenneth R. Kearn, 36, of 712 Fourth street, Menasha, on a Highway 54 curve about half a mile west of County Trunk X at 9:45 p.m. Friday.

Coisman, whose injuries were not considered serious, told county police that Kearn's car skidded across the slippery road. Skid marks indicated Kearn's car slid about 78 feet as he rounded a curve.

Damage to Coisman's 1958 car was estimated at $1,000. Kearn received a cut ear.

County police investigated 12 accidents during the snowstorm and many cars were reported off the roads and in ditches. City police investigated seven crashes, none serious.

Attorney Advocates Loving Kind of Kick

San Francisco — J. W. (Jake) Ehrlich, San Francisco's noted criminal attorney, told a U.S. senate committee studying juvenile delinquency that youngsters often need "a loving kind of kicking."

"When I was a kid I was done home at 9," Ehrlich said. "Officer Clancy would see that I got there, often by planting a shoe to my posterior."

"Slap a kid today and the whole local, state and federal government descends on you."

"I'm not advocating brutality. Only a loving kind of kicking."

Our Children

Unforeseen Events Can Upset Best Laid Plans

BY ANGELO PATRI

Something there is that lies beyond the understanding and control of even the wisest of men. Nations, people in solemn congresses, parents in quiet homes, plan and work toward an end they believe to be good only to wake up some morning and learn that something unforeseen had happened and their carefully laid plans were useless. A new look, a new way, costly perhaps in human values, but imperative.

While this force can bring grief, it can and does bring solace to people on whom it may have fallen hardest. I am thinking of fathers and mothers who, having done their very best for their children, must face the fact that their efforts have been in vain.

Something there was that swept their plans and their work aside and took over. The results, seemingly unfortunate, cannot be charged to them. Their full responsibility was discharged. The rest was taken out of their hands and the reason forever hidden. Parents do not have complete authority, complete responsibility for all their children.

No Answer
Thinking about this force so powerful and so enigmatic one cannot but wonder about the what and the why. So far there is no answer. Our history shows the might of this power again and again.

There was Gov. Bradford leading the Pilgrim Fathers to this land, a land that seemed waiting, ready for people to occupy and cultivate it. There was Lincoln. Who in his senses would have expected him to come out of his background? But he came. He was ready in the day of emergency.

When a father and mother become gravely concerned about one of their children who does not follow pattern, they often feel that they have failed by doing or not doing what was best for that child. It might just be that there was nothing they could do that would produce the child they hoped for.

It could be that there were other forces at work, forces over which they could have no effect whatever. Why such things could be, nobody knows but we all know they rise to check us in our stride time and time again.

Some people call this unknown force, the providence of God. Some call it by other names. All of us recognize it, respect, and if wise, acknowledge its place in our lives.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-26, "A Parent's Prayer," send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Two Commission Members Named

Madison — John R. Lynch of Gordon, and Paul J. Olson of Madison, have been appointed to 6-year terms on the Wisconsin Conservation commission.

Lynch and Olson, who were named to the posts Friday by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, will succeed Leonard Seyberth of Eau Claire, and A. W. Schorger of Madison if their appointments are confirmed by the senate.

Lynch is a former state chairman of the conservation congress and operates a general store in Gordon. Olson has been principal of a Madison school since 1951 and secretary of the Dane County Conservation league for six years.

driver, told police he was going down the hill when he met a car driven by Lawrence Wold, Appleton.

The Wold car started swerving from side to side and Ullman, to avoid a crash, moved the bus onto the shoulder of the road. When he attempted to regain the highway, the bus tipped over on its roof in a ditch about 15 feet below the level of the road.

Arthur Seehawer, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldor Seehawer, route 1, Fremont, was hospitalized at New London Community hospital with a cut on the left side of his head and ear. He was held for observation.

Minor Injuries

The other nine children suffered minor injuries such as cut fingers, bitten lips and bruises. Passing motorists took them to the hospital and another school bus was dispatched to take the rest home.

The pupils receiving minor injuries were all from route 1, Fremont. Donna Sawall, 17; James Langer, 13; Donna Pompa, 12; Robert Luedtke, 14; Darlene Thiel, 13; Phillip Gauerke, 13; Marilyn Kloeck, 17, and Gordon Grosnick, 16. Manuel Harn, 13, route 1, Larsen, also was treated and released.

The Associated Press reported a head-on crash on Highway 151 about 20 miles north of Madison that took the life of C. Lee Miller, 48, of Madison, Friday.

His death raised the state traffic toll to 718 compared with 727 on this date a year ago.

Poor visibility and slippery road surfaces were contributing factors in 19 Outagamie county accidents Friday and today. Seven of them were reported in Appleton.

Relatively minor damage occurred in most of them.

Elder Brewster Gives a Thanksgiving blessing at the feast celebrating the Pilgrim's first American harvest which occurred three years after their landing at Plymouth Rock.

as for democracy, John Winthrop pronounced it "the meanest and worst of all forms of government." This was the conscience which, at the height of its intensity, allowed a few fanatics to feed the flames of witchcraft on Gallows Hill and press Giles Corey to a slow death between heavy weights for supposed transgressions. It was the conscience that sent an ailing Roger Williams into a January snowstorm, banished forever from the Bay Colony for challenging Puritan Orthodoxy.

The Revolution

The American Revolution finally broke the power of the Puritan dynasty. During and after the war, special privileges of all kinds came under the attack, and people turned naturally to religions which were based on men's equality, rather than one dominated by a few specially selected individuals.

The visitor's first contact with Plymouth Rock is apt to be a disappointing one. He will find it smaller than he imagined, with a crack running through it. The bars around it, the overshadowing monument, and the possible doubt that this is actually where the Pilgrims came ashore, take something away from its reality.

But from the rock at Plymouth there emanated ripples of great importance for the history of America. From his stay in Plymouth, Roger Williams undoubtedly derived ideas on popular government, which he passed on to Thomas Hooker of Hartford. When the first Puritans were ravaged by disease, they sought medical assistance from Samuell Fuller of the Mayflower. Reality there is — the reality that they landed and stayed. The rock remains as a symbol that the colonization of New England was possible, if only one had faith and endurance.

The Pilgrims and The Puritans

BY RICHARD KETCHUM

There are few surviving landmarks of those first grim years when famine and death watched the Pilgrims with pale, expectant eyes. Not until survival was relatively certain did they, or the Puritans who followed them, have time to construct anything comfortable or permanent.

Their first "common house," begun on Christmas day, 1620, and completed on Jan. 9, was burned five days later, with its thatched roof completely destroyed. Although an icy downpour continued throughout that day, no one made an effort to repair it. The reason — it was the Sabbath.

Their piety cost the Pilgrims dear in the resulting epidemic of pneumonia and influenza. Few were left to greet their first New England spring. A monument on the steep slope of Cole's Hill is all that marks the first burying ground, where survivors of the terrible winter leveled the earth over the remains of their companions, "lest the Indians should know how many were the graves."

No Supplies

For nearly three years the Pilgrims fought off starvation. In November of 1621 the ship Fortune arrived with 35 new colonists, but no supplies. In 1623 the same story was repeated. But with or without supplies from England, it is puzzling why the Pilgrims didn't do more with the fertile land in which their colony was situated — puzzling, that is, until we realize that they brought with them no horses, cows, plows or carts. They were equipped with only one kind of hook and net, which were too large for small fish. While they had both powder and guns, they knew little about their use and were slow to learn.

But frequently a helping hand was stretched out to aid them. While the Pilgrims were desperately in need of food in 1622, Edward

A span of ten short years separated the establishment of the Plymouth Rock Colony by the Pilgrims and of the Massachusetts Bay Colony by the Puritans.

But the two groups of early settlers in New England were vastly different. The little band of Pilgrims nearly met failure. In the area abounding with game and fish, and berries, the settlers almost died of famine — and would have, if Chief Massasoit and his band hadn't offered help.

Conversely, the Puritans thrived. Backed by a well-organized corporation, they were marked for success almost from the beginning. They streamed across the Massachusetts hills, into New Hampshire, Maine, and the verdant Connecticut Valley, settling whole communities at a time.

What made the difference? Why did one colony thrive, the other nearly perish? At Thanksgiving time, an Associate Editor of American Heritage takes a look at these early beginnings of the country, and makes a pilgrimage to the home of the first Thanksgiving.

Winslow journeyed to Maine, hoping to find supplies. There, among fishermen who had been on the Maine coast for more than a century — men from Devonshire, Holland, the Basque country, and Brittany — he received "entertainment and good respect with a willingness to supply all wants."

Indians Were Kind

A friendly Indian named Samoset paid the colony a visit after that first terrible winter, and startled the remnants of the band by saying "Much welcome, Englishmen." (He had learned English from fishermen off Monhegan Island.) Soon after came Chief Massasoit, whose band might easily have annihilated the enfeebled settlers, and he too offered hospitality. And Squanto, who had learned English when he was carried off to England as a prize by early voyagers, taught the Pilgrims how to plant Indian corn.

The problems faced by the Pilgrims were alien to the Puritans at Massachusetts Bay ten years later. Instead of the very "mixed lot" that arrived in the Mayflower, the colony of Massachusetts Bay contained many skilled craftsmen. At first they built homes that were little more than bark-covered wigwams, dugouts with sod roofs, and thatched-roof cottages. By 1640 they began buildings patterned after the familiar — the medieval wooden manor houses with steep roofs and leaded casement windows. This style began to change into something better suited to severe winters, Indian raids, and different kinds of building materials. The basic pattern, however, remained, seen today in Salem's House of the Seven Gables.

Communism Failed

Instead of the trickle of colonists that came to Plymouth, Massachusetts Bay was deluged. There were 16,000 settlers by 1640 — and still the stream of immigration flowed on, bringing shipbuilders, merchants, indentured servants, artisans, shopkeepers. The colony couldn't contain them. Where the Pilgrims had no desire to push out beyond their original community, the Puritans couldn't stop. They moved in groups, settling whole communities, possessed of an insatiable land hunger which endured as long as land was to be had for the going.

Not only lack of desire to expand their territory, but the contract under which they sailed from England had hampered the Pilgrims. Their experiment in communism failed. Bound to work for their backers, the Merchant Adventurers, for seven years, the Pilgrims as individuals had little incentive when the profits went to the parent company. It was not until 1623, when the policy of giving land to families was instituted, making them responsible for their own sustenance and allowing them to keep a profit, that a marked increase in labor was noted.

Poor, honest and unworldly, the Pilgrims wanted only to live their own lives in their own particular way. When they signed the Mayflower Compact, they set up a government which was completely democratic, with no class or wealth distinctions, a government morally responsible for promoting "ye general god of ye colony."

Had Ruling Elite

Not so the Puritans. Their elders, bound up in their determination that man's spiritual and communal lives were inseparable, found it natural to insist on a ruling elite of those who could interpret the true path for the followers. There could be no tolerance. In fact, one Puritan divine stated in a sermon, "Tis Satan's policy to plead for an indefinite and boundless toleration." And

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment A Few Months Later
Thomas A. Melton Jr. (above), shows he re-grew hair by the Erickson Home Treatment method.

Hair Specialists Here Monday; Will Show How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

CHICAGO — New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Appleton, Wisconsin on Monday, November 23rd, 1959 only. Other cities listed below.

Trichologist L. E. Schroer will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Conway Hotel. Phone No. RE 4-2611.

At the home office of the Erickson organization, a new, even more successful method of treatment was announced—a treatment that you can easily administer yourself at home. This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by an Erickson expert.

Who Can Be Helped? For many years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed. Evidence of the success of the Erickson method is that the organization has expanded to serve over 400 cities in 32 states.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late."

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss"—or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubts to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep losing hair till you're bald... unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

Satisfy 95% "Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says D. W. Erickson, director of the organization, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

Examine You Free We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination. Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private. Hours are from 12:30 to 8:30 p.m.

GREEN BAY — Tuesday, November 24th at the Northland Hotel.

Manawa Official Wants to Start Welcome Wagon

Ald. Lindsay to Contact Women's Club to Push for New Project

Manawa — A Welcome Wagon to meet new city residents has been proposed by Ald. Kneale Lindsay.

Lindsay said the practice followed in other cities includes greeting new residents, helping them with home arrangements and answering any questions about the city new residents might have.

He said that a local organization should take on the project, but believed the city council should sanction it.

Clintonville, where new residents are greeted with a basket of food from merchants, was cited as an example.

Lindsay plans to contact the Young Married Women's club to find if they are interested in the plan.

Councilmen set the police chief's salary at $4,750 per year. The chief must supply and operate his own squad car. The salary is similar to last year's, but is for a five instead of a 6-day week.

Mayor Charles Hoffman praised Chief Rodney Taubel for his school crossing arrangements and Ald. Lindsay stated the city had an excellent police department.

Aldermen discussed renting their new sewer cleaning machine, to area cities and villages, but took no action.

They plan to write to the state to see if the sewer cleaning device can be paid for with water department funds rather than general city funds.

Four Named to Farmer Council At Amherst

The major duty to be performed by council will be to plan and establish a series of chemical weed control plots on a near-by farm.

Next summer local farmers will be invited to attend a field day at the demonstration plots.

At the next adult farmer class, Tuesday, C. Nowak, agricultural instructor, has a specialist assigned to discuss chemical weed control and insecticides.

Captain Sets Record

Most of His 15-Mile Chute Jump Free Fall

White Sands Missile Range, N. M. — The air force today disclosed that a 31-year-old air force captain this week made a parachute jump of 15 miles, most of it in free fall.

The air force said the jump, by Capt. Joseph Kittinger, was a record distance for free fall and the longest parachute jump in aerial history.

The jump was made Monday over this southern New Mexico missile range from a height of 76,400 feet.

That height is also a record, for man in an open gondola balloon, the air force said. Kittinger fell to 12,000 feet in 3 minutes before opening his chute through temperatures as low as 104 degrees below zero.

300-Foot Balloon
Kittinger took off in an open basket borne by a 300-foot plastic balloon filled with helium gas. It took 90 minutes for the balloon to reach its maximum altitude. At that point, the gondola was cut loose from the helium bag and Kittinger plunged about 66,000 feet in a free drop before his parachute opened automatically at 10,000 feet above the earth's surface.

The air force said Kittinger, who is with the aerospace medical laboratory at Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio, was in "good shape" after the drop.

The air force said that the previous official records for planned parachute jumps were about 43,000 feet. Recently, a marine corps pilot ejected from his aircraft at 46,000 feet when he ran into a storm. There have been reports that two British airmen survived a jump from a bomber that had to be abandoned at about 55,000 feet.

Bulgaria Next Residence for Globe-Trotting Houseguest

BY PATRICIA SCHULTZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — The voluminous task of ordering 1,750 pounds of food and assembling a 2-year wardrobe occupies spare moments of a Menasha houseguest.

"I'm planning to take anything I'll need for the next two years," said Margaret Hatton, sister of Mrs. Arthur Reubold, 937 Marquette street, and Mrs. T. M. Gilbert, 616 Nicolet boulevard.

The magnitude of preparation is necessary as Miss Hatton will leave after the first of the year for Sofia, Bulgaria, to serve as a secretary with the state department. Diplomatic relations between the United States and the "Iron Curtain" country were resumed only recently, causing knowledge of living conditions to be somewhat uncertain.

Travel and extended stays out of the country are not new experiences to the attractive visitor. During World War II, she was stationed for two years with the Wacs in Paris, Japan, Korea

In 1951, as secretary to the port commander and employed by the department of army, Miss Hatton resided in southern Japan. Her next stop was Korea, where she lived in Pusan and Seoul. She returned to this country in October after four years in Formosa, where she worked with a state department section assisting refugees from the China mainland.

"Good old sign language" was employed with household help until the cook went to night school to learn to read the recipes, the cosmopolitan visitor recalled.

"Entertainment was done largely in the home," explained Miss Hatton, whose 3-bedroom house was in the Formosa capital, Taipei. A large colony of Americans, Chinese friends and frequent trips to Hong Kong, where "no matter how sure you were you didn't need anything, something caught your eye," combined for a pleasant and interesting life.

"I'm not dressed for this," she smiled pointing to the snow-covered ground. "The temperature was 94 degrees when I left Taipei and 15 degrees at the football game last week."

Because the Formosa climate is mild, with a short rainy season, she will require "almost a complete switch of clothing" for the colder air of Bulgaria.

One of the qualities of foreign service life she enjoys most is having friends throughout the world. "No matter where you may be, you run into someone you know or a friend of a friend."

The woman who transferred from London and moved into my house in Formosa has a friend who will be at the legation with me in Bulgaria, she illustrated. "Immediately, we had something in common."

Miss Warrine Sherman is program chairman. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sherman are co-chairmen of the refreshment committee.

The group has cancelled its plans for "Go-to-Church" Sunday.

Lured into her career by a desire to travel, Miss Hatton recommends foreign service life for the girl with a yen to travel, who likes people and who doesn't mind moving every three or four years.

"Entertainment was done largely in the home," explained Miss Hatton, whose 3-bedroom house was in the Formosa capital, Taipei. A large colony of Americans, Chinese friends and frequent trips to Hong Kong, where "no matter how sure you were you didn't need anything, something caught your eye," combined for a pleasant and interesting life.

Thanksgiving Program Given at Meeting Of Royaltan Grange

Royaltan — A Thanksgiving program highlighted the meeting of the local grange.

Andy Doran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Doran, has left for his home in Fresno, Calif., after a visit with his parents.

Lesson in English

Words Often Misused: Distinguish between RESTLESS (unrestful; disinclined to rest; fidgety) and RESTIVE (Balky, as commonly applied to a horse; or fretful under restraint, as applied to persons). Thus: "His lack of work made the man very restless." "Because of the speaker's long harangue, the audience became restive."

Often Mispronounced: Arthritic (pertaining to the disease, arthritis). Pronounce the first "i" as in "it," not as in "right."

Often Misspelled: Baring (uncovering). Barring (excluding). Bearing (carrying).

Synonyms: Slovenly, slipshod, slatternly, untidy, disorderly, dowdy.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: introspection; self-analysis. "Introspection is essential in a program of self-improvement."

Rapids Here Tonight

Neenah — Neenah will attempt to make it two wins in as many nights when it plays host to Wisconsin Rapids at 8:15 p.m. tonight. The Rockets trimmed the Raiders 70-58 in last year's meeting at Wisconsin Rapids.

then continued the surge into the final frame by making six more in a row.

Pacing the Rocket attack was senior Jack Ankerson, who pumped home 27 points on 11 baskets and five free throws. He sent home many of his buckets on 1 long jump shots. Ankerson's best period was the second when he connected on four in six attempts. Fond du Lac honors went to Bob Hochrein and substitute forward Jack Nussbaum, both with 13. Mike Murphy added a dozen. The Cardinals played without starting forward Ken Wilderman, who was on crutches with a severe ankle sprain.

Fond du Lac dominated the boards most of the first half but in the final two frames the Rockets had control. Neenah frequently tallied off the fast break, driving in for lay-ups especially after jump balls at the Fondy free throw circle.

The score was tied six times in the first period and it was 15-all at the end of the first frame. Fondy scored the first bucket of the second segment but Neenah made the next eight points (six by Ankerson) and 12 of the next 13 to move to a 27-13 advantage. At one juncture the visitors shaved the spread to 31-28 but Neenah was up 37-31 at the intermission.

With the score 41-35 in the second period Fondy came up with six straight points for a 41-all deadlock. Later the Cards took a 45-44 edge but Ankerson scored a bucket and Forrest Hyde made a free throw for a 47-45 Neenah lead.

Lead for Keeps
After the visitors' "Chuck" Brunau made good on a jump shot, Ankerson put Neenah ahead for keeps with a free throw and Hyde added a bucket just before the period ended for a 50-47 score.

Neenah's narrow spread in the final period was five points and its widest was 12.

Unofficially, the Rockets hit 31 per cent on 26 for while Fond du Lac came up with 27 per cent on 22 for 81. From the free throw stripe, it was Neenah 12 for 20 and Fondy 16 for 23.

MHS Loses 4 Players Via Fouls

Manitowoc — Menasha collected five more field goals than its opponent but was out to the Shipbuilders' 21. But the Menashans committed 28 fouls to Manitowoc's nine and therein lies the tale. The winners converted 24 times to emerge with the victory.

Coach Lucian Gajewski lost four of his starters on the maximum violation total and his other regular had four. Bill Ritchie left with three scored better than 3 to 1 from the free throw stripe and dropped a hard-fought 66-59 verdict to Manitowoc here Friday night.

The Jats, who now have a 1-1 record, scored 26 baskets minutes to play in the third period, Bill Ritchie bowed out with a minute gone in the final frame and Dave Ristau and Jim Stenson were whistled out at the 1:12 and 8 second marks respectively.

10-Point Advantage
Manitowoc led by 10 points (40-30) at one juncture in the third period but the Jays trimmed the spread in half (42-37) at the close of the frame.

Drzewiecki Stenson

Jim Stenson of the Jays hit the first bucket of the last segment, cutting the difference to three points.

With a couple of minutes gone, Manitowoc was in front 49-42 but Dave Ristau made two straight buckets and a free throw for a 49-47 score with 5:40 to play.

Manitowoc's Paul Meany

and Stenson traded field goals for a 51-49 score but Manitowoc hit six straight points, baskets by Meany and Rolie Neillitz, and two free throws by Al Zipperer, for a 57-49 score.

16-12 at Quarter
The Manitowoc lead varied from five to eight points and it was five at 60-55, 62-57 and 64-59. Zipperer made two free throws with eight seconds left for the final spread of seven.

The Jays never led. They were tied 3-3 early in the game and trailed 16-12 at the quarter. They were in arrears 18-17 midway in the second frame and were behind 28-22 at halftime.

Manitowoc, with the 6-5 lead, made 11 of 15 shots and 6-8 free throws for a 64-52 win.

Manitowoc's Paul Meany, 6-3 Bob Savage and 6-2 Neillitz, had the best of it in the rebounding department and it was under the boards that Menasha committed many of its fouls.

17 Points Apiece
Meany and Zipperer, a pair of juniors, had 17 points apiece for Manitowoc while Neillitz hit 14 and Savage, another junior, totaled 13. Jay Drzewiecki, the only starter who didn't foul out, tallied 16, Stenson had 15 and Ristau 13 for Menasha.

From the free throw line, Manitowoc made 24 of 41. The Jays had a better percentage but only were given 11 chances, making seven.

Menashans Trek To Kewaunee to Play Entry

Menasha — St. John will begin its third season of Badger Amateur Basketball association play, meeting Kewaunee on the latter's court tonight.

Kewaunee is one of two new league entries but the squad has been together for the last seven or eight years, playing independently. The Chiefs are led by Carl Kuehl, veteran performer, who played with Two Rivers in the days of the Wisconsin State league.

Other team members, all former Kewaunee High school players, included Bill Maigater, Marv Dax, Del Charles, Bob and Fale Famaree, Wayne Rabas and Roger Koch.

St. John took second place last season but gone from that team are Al Wisneski, now at St. Norbert college, and Ron Dibelius and Bob Karisny, both of whom are at Oshkosh State.

High-scoring Tom Martin is still handicapped by an ankle sprain.

Macs Battle Plymouth in EW Struggle

Menasha — The Menasha Macs will welcome Plymouth for their third Eastern Wisconsin Amateur Basketball league encounter at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Butte des Morts gym.

In their first two league starts, the defending league champs defeated Reedsville and Valders. Plymouth returns to the circuit after a year's absence.

Five Macs scored 11 or more points in Wednesday's 61-79 win over Valders. Dick Rohe had 17, Ray Swicichowski 15, Pete Burghardt 13, Joe Kosiorek 12 and Greg Ropela 11.

Psychology Found in Music for Commercials

Letter Writers Suggest 'Stooges' Haters Switch Channels, Turn Off Sets

BY JINGO
The next time you turn on a television commercial, beware of the background music. It may be "fixed."

Without your knowing it, the music may be mounting a psychological attack against your sales resistance.

Anyway, this is what one background music company has reported.

Take one of the automobile ads, for example. The background music is modern jazz. This is supposed to convince you the car is ultra-modern.

Then comes the extra touch. Actors flow into the sponsoring auto's seats, but push and squeeze into those of competitors. With almost every contortion with the competitors' cars, the music changes meter.

"Each meter change gives the viewer an uncomfortable experience," explains one music company mogul. That is supposed to convince viewers that the competitors' cars are cramped gadgets.

A 1-minute commercial prepared with all this sublime planning costs about $1,150 (five musicians) to $3,250 (a 30-piece orchestra). This is for the recording only, not the actual film.

Jingo Lingo: Jingo is in receipt of an unsigned postal card which suggests that those who don't like the effect of "The Three Stooges" TV show upon their children simply turn off the set, or to another channel. It's a fairly sound suggestion if you accept the principle that anything goes on television.

Pearl Bailey has bagged a role in "All the Fine Young Cannibals," the MGM movie that will star Robert Wagner, Natalie Wood and Susan Kohner. She'll play a broken down singer who helps a Presley-type singer-geekster debut at a plush New York club.

Nat "King" Cole's brother, Eddie, is a regular featured player in the "Bourbon Street Beat" TV series. Nostalgic days of showboating will be recalled on the "Johns Hopkins' File 7" program Sunday morning on ABC-TV. It ought to be interesting.

Burgess Meredith plays Eli Whitney and Betsy Palmer, Peggy Ann Garner and Mark Stevens are in the cast of the "American Heritage" Sunday show on NBC-TV. Whitney was the "dreamer" who invented the cotton gin.

The American premiere of the celebrated French film depicting the life of Mary, Mother of Jesus, through rare 15th century manuscript illuminations will be featured in a special color.

A car driven by Albert D. Lehman, Bear Creek, ran into the rear of the Christiansen car while both were going north on Highway 45. The Christiansen car was pushed into the rear of a truck, whose driver was unaware of the accident.

Damages exceeded $100.

College Frat Frank Frightens Russians

Tallahassee, Fla. — A group of touring Russians was halted briefly here by college boys decked out in Confederate uniforms and carrying dummy rifles.

Two fraternity boys, who didn't know the identity of the group, were soliciting funds Thursday for student loans. The Russians apparently didn't contribute.

The visitors, who included Madame Zoya Kuznetsov, wife of the chief of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, were startled at the prank until a Florida State University professor explained it was all in fun.

The Russians have been on a tour of Florida for several days.

DHIA Annual Meeting Date Set for Dec. 11

Waupaca — Plans for the annual Waupaca - Waushara DHIA meeting at Waupaca Dec. 11 will be made during a Nov. 30 directors meeting according to Joe Walker, county agent.

Scheduled is a forage clinic conducted by George Werner of the University of Wisconsin.

Edd Byrnes says "I'm very grateful to Warner Brothers for what the studio has done for me," but he still isn't returning to "77 Sunset Strip" until he gets a new contract.

The studio agreed to up his salary from $400 to $750, but insists on a 2-year extension of the deal. Edd's agents say no, so Kookie's combing his hair at home these days.

Russians Say Woman Parachutist Recovered From 5,740 Foot Drop

Moscow — The Soviet news agency Tass said Russia's champion woman parachutist, Nadezhda Pyrkhina, has recovered after falling 5,740 feet when her chute failed to open.

The veteran of 938 jumps injured two lumbar vertebrae in the accident while taking part in international parachute competitions in Plovdiv, Bulgaria, on Sept. 3, the agency said.

Miss Pyrkhina was quoted as saying the drop lasted about 40 seconds and she never lost consciousness. She fell in a plowed field.

Most Actors Favor Pay-TV

Frees Them From Commercial Task, Says Dana Andrews

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — Nearly every actor you talk to is strong for pay-TV. Most of them figure that it will be a boon to the acting crowd, bringing renewed prosperity. But Dana Andrews has another reason for his advocacy of television.

"It will free actors from the necessity of pitching the product," says he. Andrews argues that sponsors force performers to spiel the commercials with the resultant loss of dignity and standing.

I don't know how forced the actors are (money is an unhidden persuader), but it is painful to see admired stars acting as pitchmen. The nadir was reached on a recent "Big Party" show. Gloria Swanson was doing a commercial for a lady's electric shaver.

The commercial itself was in questionable taste, especially when delivered by one of the great stars of screen history. Then she introduced another great star, Ramon Novarro, and used the back of his arm to demonstrate the shaver! It had to be seen to be believed.

Almost as jarring is the old practice of having stars like Jim Arness and Jack Webb step out of character at the end of the show to render the plug. I saw a recent show in which John Bromfield did it during the middle commercial. Somehow he lost me when he resumed his role as U.S. marshal.

Groucho Marx is passing up dozens of offers to guest star on other TV shows this season. His reasoning: "A guest is an actor who does four minutes on his own and then is shunted aside while the star does 55 minutes. I feel like a nonentity on those shows—an appendix."

Groucho will stick to his own show, though he may bust out and do a special of his own, perhaps in a dramatic role.

Ed Wynn gets a 2-week vacation from playing Jerry Lewis's fairy godfather in "Cinderella" to go east for "Miracle on 34th Street." He will do the show live, playing the role that got the late Edmund Gwenn an Oscar.

Mort Sahl is adding some finishing touches to a TV special he did in New York a couple of months ago. The show is scheduled for January. It features the Sahl wit (but how topical can it be?) and a lot of new young talent.

Edd Byrnes says "I'm very grateful to Warner Brothers for what the studio has done for me," but he still isn't returning to "77 Sunset Strip" until he gets a new contract.

The studio agreed to up his salary from $400 to $750, but insists on a 2-year extension of the deal. Edd's agents say no, so Kookie's combing his hair at home these days.

Index to Current Publications Lacks Conservative Viewpoint

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York—Some time ago, seeking information, I turned to "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" for an index and noted that certain publications were omitted.

Those left out happened to be favorites of mine and they were on what Sokolsky I would consider my side of the fence. To me that meant that if a high school or college student were seeking the conservative side of an argument, to write an essay or prepare a debate, he would have no index to it. I selected the "National Review" as an instance and searched for a mention of it and found none.

The "National Review" contains adequate articles on the conservative side of current questions. It should be in an index to current periodical literature. It is, in fact, the only conservative publication which has appeared regularly for enough years to accept its performance.

I wrote to the publishers of the index and have received from Edwin B. Colburn, the following explanation:

Libraries Choose
"All the periodicals indexed in the Readers' Guide are selected by vote of the subscribers to that index; none by us. Most of the subscribers, of course, are libraries—public, college, and school. We are currently having the assistance of a committee of the American Library association who are making a series of studies of all our periodical indexes and their coverage. This committee invites suggestions from the subscribers and from other sources, concerning titles which should be considered for the index being studied. From these a voting list is prepared and sent to all subscribers. Their votes determine which periodicals are to be indexed. These studies and polls are conducted at intervals of several years.

Presumably every organization has to establish some system to do its work. On the other hand, an index, to be of value must cover the field fully. The index in question is widely used by students and persons engaged in such professions as mine who search for the printed word. The assumption must be that it is accurate and complete.

For generations the "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" has been regarded as accurate and complete. To be complete, it may not omit any periodical published in this country of any durability.

Lack of Familiarity
Probably the cost of paper and printing or the pressures of times led the publishers to set up this system. This committee either ignores or dislikes or is ignorant of certain publications. Does anyone read every periodical published in the United States? Yet the most valuable articles may be published in obscure ones.

Librarians are bound to know the outsides of books and magazines. When it comes to the insides, they, like so many other humans, limit themselves to reading reviews.

Surely the conservative side of current questions requires as much attention as radical or liberal sides or as those publications which take no side at all but publish sundry articles by inept persons about nothing particularly significant and which women read while the sleeping pill takes effect. On similar occasions men prefer murder.

Water Topic No Match For Cocktail Party

Denver — Only 44 of the more than 300 delegates attending the annual convention of Colorado county commissioners heard a speech by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) Thursday night.

The senator's subject was water resources.

His chief competition came from a cocktail party sponsored by an implement firm in the same downtown hotel.

Writer Seeks Damages From Norman Krasna

Hollywood — A writer seeks $500,000 damages from producer Norman Krasna.

Valentine Davies contends Krasna incorporated one of his works into a play, "Who Was Lady I Saw You With?" The suit, filed Thursday, claims Krasna paid the film rights without offering Davies any compensation.

Davies says his work was entitled: "Love Must Go On."

Bulldogs Decision Seymour, 54 to 51

Laux Paces Winners With 18 Points in Non-Conference Test

New London — A final effort in the fourth quarter gave the New London Bulldogs a 54 to 51 non-conference basketball win over the Seymour Indians here Friday night in the Washington high school gymnasium.

Both teams were deadlocked going into the fourth quarter with a pair of 40's showing on the scoreboard. Seymour's Larry Mory gave the Indians their last lead in the game by opening the period with a jump shot.

Scores Tip-In
The Bulldog climb was launched by Tom Laux, who paced the scoring with 18 points, as he scored a tip-in to tie the game at 42-all. His brother Dan Laux added another three points when he was fouled while making a long jump shot. The Bulldogs retained the 3-point lead until about three minutes remained when Dick Shaw, of Seymour, scored a jump shot to tie the game at 49-all.

Penn State's President Prefers Liberty Bowl Bid

New York — The president of Pennsylvania State university says he prefers to accept a bid to the Liberty bowl in Philadelphia Dec. 19. Dr. Eric Walker is expected officially to announce acceptance upon his return to University Park, Pa., within the next 48 hours.

Dr. Walker, here on university business, said Thursday night, "I think we have a special obligation to a bowl in Pennsylvania."

In Philadelphia, "Bud" Dudley, a co-promoter of the bowl to be played in the city's 100,000-seat Municipal stadium, said the likely opponent now appears to be Texas Christian university. It is understood TCU is anxious to come to the Liberty bowl.

Pittman Leads Mobile Tourney

Mobile, Ala. — The first $15,000 Mobile Open golf tournament had a distinct dark-horse tinge today as play entered the second round.

At the head of the pack was Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla., a newcomer who turned 23 Thursday. Pittman, who won only $815 in his previous 11 tournaments, came home with a 5-under-par 35-32-67.

Bunched two strokes in back were two more 23-year-old pros, a veteran club pro, and a perennial tournament threat, Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas.

Matching Maxwell's 69 were youngsters Eddie Langert of Minneapolis, Minn.; Jack Ellis of Wilmette, Ill.; and John Barnum, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Towel Tops Matthews on Split Verdict

New York — Willie Towel can come back anytime. The former British Empire lightweight champ from Johannesburg, South Africa, made a hit Friday night in winning a split decision over Philadelphia's Len Matthews.

It wasn't Towel's victory that inspired the enthusiasm. In fact there were many who thought Matthews won. The thing that caught the crowd's fancy at Madison Square garden was Willie's skill in avoiding a knockout after being knocked down twice in the eighth round. Under New York rules, it is an automatic TKO when a fighter is down three times in one round.

Australia Wins Canada Cup; Playoff Dramatic

Melbourne — Australia's Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle won the Canada cup golf title by 10 whopping strokes over the United States today, but Canada's Stan Leonard beat out Thomson in a dramatic extra-hole playoff for the individual crown.

The second successive playoff in individual competition became necessary when Thomson and Leonard finished in a 72-hole tie at 275 after Thomson missed a 14-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Curci Leads Hurricanes Over Spartans, 18-13

Miami, Fla. — Miami's Hurricanes, a young but eager football team led by 152-pound Fran Curci, stood with in one victory of an Orange bowl berth today after an 18-13 upset of Michigan State Friday night.

By beating Florida in their final game next week, the Hurricanes can clinch an invitation to meet the Big Eight runner-up in the Miami bowl New Year's day.

Michigan State's Big Ten co-leaders were in the running for the Rose bowl but their position was less hopeful. They'll go to Pasadena only if Northwestern and Wisconsin are beaten or tied in their closing games today.

A Couple of Prep Cagers who are in the neighborhood of 6-foot-6 (Appleton's Ron Abel, 45, and Kimberly's Tom Rooyackers, 44) stage a private rebounding war, while four other players await the outcome. Also shown in this first-half action at Kimberly Friday night are the Papermakers' Darrell Jansen (21) and Jerry Binsfeld (40) and the Terrors' Paul Varney Heyden (53) and Larold Lodholz (55). Kimberly won the game, 74-72, in two overtimes and a free throw round.

U. S. Withholds Funds Until States Tells Number of Hunting Licenses

Washington — The Interior department said Friday it will withhold $523,221 from Wisconsin and five other states until they report on the number of persons who held paid hunting licenses in 1957-58.

The amount involved for Wisconsin totals $116,962. Other states are Colorado, $61,970; Michigan, $223,239; Minnesota, $98,687; Montana $1,258, and Missouri, $25,804.

The department said it has received no word from the states since they were notified earlier this week that the department had taken its withholding action in request for the reports.

Separate Licenses

Interior department officials said the states involved require separate licenses for various species of game and that their original qualifications as to the number of paid license holders for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1958 are believed to include duplications.

Attorneys for the department said that under the law only the total of individuals to whom a state has issued

Curci Leads Hurricanes Over Spartans, 18-13

Miami's stunning victory over the Spartans last night heightened Curci's All-America chances. The little field general directed his team beautifully and stirred a crowd of 40,870 with an exciting mixture of passes, runs and pichtouts from the option.

An 80-yard third quarter drive that put the game out of Michigan State's reach at 18-6 was almost a 1-man show. Curci completed four straight passes for 48 yards, scored on a 2-yard run, and passed for two extra points.

Bays Favored Over 'Skins in Home Finale

who fretted over Washington twice annually and, of course, defensive "backfield" coach Norb Hecker who played with the Redskins.

"They beat you in a lot of different ways, running back kicks, fumbles and interceptions," Lombardi said this week.

The No. 3 rushing club in the league (Green Bay is fourth), the Redskins can play ball control all day with a balanced backfield headed by Don Bosseler, the big full-back. He usually works with halfbacks Dick James and Ed Sutton although Johnny "O" raced for a Redskins record 165 yards against the Packers in Washington last year.

More Passing
Redskin coach Mike Nixon goes for more passing than most previous Washington coaches, but he insists on extreme care when placing the ball in orbit.

That's how the Redskins upset the World Champion Colts two weeks ago — on pin-point passing by Eddie LeBaron, the great little QB, who probably will play despite a damaged rib. Washington tipped Baltimore on a last minute interception of a John Unitas pass by former Packer Tom Braatz and a 42-yard field goal by Sam Baker, 27-24.

If LeBaron is hurting too much, the Redskins can uncork the league's No. 2 passer, one George Guglielmi, who has averaged 8.39 yards per attempt. He has four TD passes; so has LeBaron. The club's top receiver at end is Bill Anderson who is eighth in the league with 26 catches.

Bart Starr will start at QB for the Packers and Lamar McHan will be ready to go if necessary. Starr opened for the injured McHan vs. the Colts and Lombardi said his performance warranted another start.

The Packers are equipped and healthy for air ground duty. Starr hurled 40 passes vs. the Colts and one of the questions is how much the Bays will take to the air. The Packers have their one-two ground punch, Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, in good working order.

Bob McBride Changes His Mind About Taking Los Angeles Position

Los Angeles — Los Angeles' entry in the new American Professional Football league doesn't have a team or a ballpark.

But it did have a coach — until Friday.

General Manager Frank Leahy said Bob McBride has changed his mind about taking the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Chargers and that he released McBride from his agreement.

Leahy said no announcement of a coaching appointment will be made until the American league player draft, which starts Monday, is over.

and nine of 11 free throws. Jansen, a rebounding power and exceptional maneuverer inside the free throw line, drilled 10 of 19 floor attempts and added three free throws (in seven tries).

Balanced scoring was the AHS retort to the twin Kimberly threat. Each of the six Terrors who saw most of the action scored between eight and 18 points.

The most pleasant surprises for Appleton were guard Pete Treiber, who scored 18 markers in an impressive varsity debut; and Abel, who played almost a full game after his return from a season of injury-caused inactivity.

Goes 8-For-8
Treiber poured in five of nine field shots and all eight of his free throws.

Besides showing much of his old-time rebounding potential, Abel clicked seven times on 19 field shots. He got better as the game wore on, sinking four vital goals in the fourth quarter.

The Terrors had a slim field goal shooting percentage edge: 36.5 to 35.4. The win was the third straight for Kimberly over AHS and enabled Gil Frank to pull even ing Papermakers at 67-all, with 22 seconds remaining (on LaViolette's rebound goal).

The Terrors took their first lead in the game, at 71-69 (on a short goal by Schultz) with 1:52 left in the second overtime. The Papermakers came back to send the game into the free throw round.

The performances of both tall, battling and talented teams seem to portend good conference seasons for them.

This scoring summary of the final 14 minutes plus shows how the game, which had been primarily a Papermaker party for three quarters, suddenly became a free-for-all:

Abel, lay-up 48-58
Treiber, 2 fts. 50-60

Kimberly's lead had still been a solid nine points with only 34 minutes remaining. In the final three minutes, the Papermakers resorted to a semi-stall in order to ward off the determined Terrors, but Lodholz' game-tying rebound shot precluded their being able to end it in standard playing time.

Take Upper Hand
In the first overtime stanza, the Papermakers quickly took the upper hand on Rooyak's 10-foot swisher. Kimberly then rebounded a missed AHS shot and held the ball until only 14 seconds were left. However, a missed Papermaker attempt gave the Terrors a new life. Lodholz again came through on a neat pivot shot with 34 seconds left.

Hearnden missed for Kimberly at 10 seconds. Schultz rebounded. AHS called time out with :04 showing. Abel's long shot and rebound bid failed, and another extra frame was needed.

Schultz' 8-footer gave AHS a 71-69 lead with 1:52 left in deficit to score a 48-35 basketball victory over the Appleton JVs in the season opener Friday night.

Rick Polman scored 16 points, including five field goals in the second half, to uace the victory. Tom Roovers added 11 for the big host team.

Mike Lee's 12 points showed the way for the Junior Terrors. Lee dropped in three first-quarter shots to spark the early AHS drive. But, in the second quarter, the visitors could manage only four points — all of them by Lee.

Kimberly achieved a 13-3 third-quarter point advantage to put the game out of reach. Coach Walt Rennebohn's Junior Papermakers made 12 of 16 free throws. Coach John Graff's visitors dropped in 11 of 17 free shots.

The Lady in Your Life Will Be Flattered and feel lovelier with a Christmas gift from the cosmetic department of Belling Pharmacy, 204 E. College avenue. Bellings is proud to announce that they have been chosen to handle the line from the House of Guerlain, creators since 1828 of the world's finest perfume, of which one of the best known perhaps is Shalimar.

Shalimar, lovely legendary perfume in the distinctive bottle patterned after an old Egyptian urn, will find its way into many Christmas stockings in Appleton this year. If the lady of the house has anything to say about it. Other fragrances recommended by Bellings from the Guerlain company in New York and Paris are L'Heure Bleue, Mitsouko, Jicky, and the newest, Ode. They also carry colognes, toilet soaps, and talcum powder. Don't stop here, however. Bellings have shelves full of exciting gifts for your favorite girl. No one ever has too many lipsticks. Any girl would like one of Revlon's beautiful Futurama lipstick cases with one of the new exciting shades of lipstick. Or let her go completely exotic with the new eye makeup that is so much fun this year: eye shadow, mascara, brushes and pencils — Bellings has the complete line. The Yardley line of toiletries is a good suggestion and the stand-by Coddie colognes and perfumes. Jean Nate is another exclusive line at Bellings with exquisite colognes and soaps. New in Bellings is the Kent hairbrushes, the oldest line of brushes made in England. They use the bristle of the Siberian boar, unattainable during the war, non-injurious to the scalp and will last a lifetime. To a few, the line of non-allergic cosmetics carried by Bellings for those with sensitive skins is a real blessing. These are attainable in almost everything that is needed by the woman who wants to look her best. Bellings recommends that you do your Christmas shopping in the cosmetic department early. The women on your shopping list will be glad that you did.

Baby, It's Cold Outside, but your house is toasty warm without a worry, can be any Appleton homeowner's theme song this winter by calling Jenkel Oil company, 1201 N. Badger avenue. Phone number for fast delivery is RE 9-1144.

No more winter heating problems, says John Jenkel, of Jenkel Oil company, distributors of Skelly products. Skelly furnace oil with SK-12 additive ends four main causes of furnace failure. It keeps the nozzles clean. A pin-point particle of dirt can clog a nozzle. SK-12 does away with sludge, carbon and foreign residue that clog nozzles and vital furnace parts. It keeps filters gum-free. Filters do their duty longer, better with new SK-12, guarding the system. It prevents dirty, gummed-up filters and keeps oil free from impurities. It keeps fuel lines open. SK-12 prevents rust and corrosion that could easily cause a major repair bill. It works from fuel tank to flame so your system operates at its most efficient, finest. It gets faster starts. Skelly Furnace oil, with the highest BTU output known, burns completely. With SK-12 for a clean, unclogged system, this means quick starts and faster, fuller flame. Jenkel Oil company, distributors of Skelly Furnace oil, will deliver promptly and with convenient metered service, a printed receipt from the meter on the truck to show accurate delivery of the customer's purchase. Jenkel will service your home or place of business with oil on demand or at regular intervals, whichever you prefer. Call Jenkel at RE 9-1144.

Parents Can Help Prevent Hearing Loss in Children

Parents, together with their doctor, are the first line of defense against hearing loss in children according to Howard W. Nussbicker, Appleton representative of Zenith hearing

H. W. Nussbicker

Nussbicker, who is temporarily in a new location in the basement of the Conway Hotel says parents should become familiar with major threats to hearing and take common sense precautions. The major causes of hearing loss during infancy and early childhood include accidents, foreign objects stuffed into the ears, virus diseases, such as measles, chicken pox and mumps, allergies and infectious head colds, Nussbicker said. Accidents resulting in strong enough blows on the head may injure delicate ear structures and alert parents can make simple safety checks. Objects stuffed into the ears can cause even more damage than accidents and sometimes are not noticed for several days. Nussbicker said any unusual condition at the opening of the ear should be examined by a doctor.

Trouble inside the ear drum is responsible for most of the hearing loss acquired in childhood. Allergy and infection are serious offenders, because they block the nose and interfere with proper ventilation of the space behind the ear drums. Air passing through the small tube, which extends from the back of the nose to the ear cavity, provides essential ventilation. When this tube is blocked, hearing is temporarily impaired, Nussbicker said. A leading doctor has said that nose drops present a definite threat to hearing.

They open not only the nose but may also open the passages to the ears, permitting the entrance of infection, the Zenith representative stated. Nussbicker repeated that by remembering these few simple facts about the causes of hearing loss in children and the common sense precautions indicated, parents can do a great deal to prevent hearing loss which may last a lifetime.

Trudell's are Hi Proud they have recently been appointed a dealer for Motorola TV, radio, stereo, hi-fi and phonographs. Trudell's is located at Valley Fair Shopping Center, open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with free no-meter parking, front and rear. Telephone at Trudell's is RE 4-7138.

Trudell's say the most powerful TV ever is the new Motorola frame grid tube which extends TV reception up to 35 per cent, with 100 per cent more power amplification, 50 per cent less signal noise, and which dramatically improves the picture wherever you are. Trudell's also invite you to visit their newly remodeled stereo and hi-fi department. They have the largest display of new Motorola television, stereo and radios in the Fox Cities. Your old set is worth money in trade at Trudell's. There are many models of portable phonographs—all the excitement of authentic 3-channel stereo hi-fi made possible by 3 separate amplifiers and three separate speaker systems. Golden Stereo "800" record changer plays all four speeds and comes in finishes of gold, alligator black, London brown or Irish linen color. Trudell's wants to call attention to all record lovers—there will be free records given away with every phonograph purchased. Visit Trudell's soon and see the new line of Motorola—the most reliable, most convenient, most trouble-free TV you can own, Trudell's claim. They offer a full year warranty on all parts and picture tube. Trudell's is located at Valley Fair Shopping Center and they are open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Corn in Chex Form Introduced at Grocers

Corn, one of the most popular of all ready to eat cereal ingredients, makes its debut in a new form as Ralston Purina introduces Corn Chex in the Appleton-Fox Cities area through an extensive newspaper advertising program in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

The new product consists of crisp little bite-size shredded biscuits of toasted corn, similar in appearance and texture to the company's popular

Wheat Chex and Rice Chex. The bite-size shredded corn cereal is delightful to use in cooking — onion rings that are dipped in egg and then in the finely crushed corn cereal are mighty tasty when deep-fat fried. And herb-flavored bite-size corn biscuits can be prepared in a jiffy and stored in glass jars, ready for use as croutons in soups and salads or as crumb topping on casseroles.

Fox River's Strength Harnessed For Economy-Supporting Power

Second of Pioneers' Dreams Proves to be Lasting Reality as Barge Traffic Passes

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Editor

The mighty Fox river evoked a 2-fold dream in the minds of pioneers carving a future out of the wilds of northeastern Wisconsin: a substitute for the storied Northwest passage along the Fox and Wisconsin to the Mississippi, and the industrial potential that frothed along the 160-foot drop from Lake Winnebago to the Fox's mouth at Green Bay.

Both dreams were implemented, but the former failed to come up to expectations and this fall has seen the practical end of commercial river transportation, with only one tug and a barge left to ply the ancient waters.

However, the Fox's frothy turbulence was tamed to create the foundation for the Fox valley's stable economy. Most of that economy-making power still remains in the hands of a 93-year-old concern headquartered at Appleton, the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company.

As the name suggests, the firm was organized with transportation in mind, but navigation remained a concern of the company for only six years. Since then it has been concerned only in water power.

Explorers Pointed Way
Marquette, Joliet and Nicol et pointed to the possibilities of the Fox-Wisconsin thoroughfare, but the modern impetus was given the dream by Jonathan Carver, who traversed the riverway in 1768 laying claim to vast tracts of land.

Incidentally he gave historical immortality to one of present day Menasha's first citizens, Princess Glory of the Morning, of the Winnebago, by writing of her island headquarters containing 50 lodges.

His trail was further popularized by explorations in 1817 that set the stage for a long series of litigations over his land claims.

Duty Rides Waterway
Perhaps the key to development of the waterway was forged in 1822 when Judge and Mrs. James Duane Doty took the territorial court to Prairie du Chien for the first time, riding in one of the trader Joseph Rolette's freight canoes.

Only three portages were noted: at Grand Kakalin or complete the task started by Martin and the state.

Doty and Reed, in 1835, sold all of their works and improvements at Menasha to the company but withheld their power rights. These were later sold to the Neenah-Menasha Water Power company.

The Fox and Wisconsin Improvement company found canal building expensive with small returns and it was forced to borrow heavily. On Feb. 4, 1864, a judgment was entered against it in federal court at Fond du Lac and its holdings were ordered sold to satisfy creditors, most of whom were eastern capitalists led by Horatio Seymour. The sale was to start with the land in 640-acre portions, then the power rights, the improvement works and, finally, the corporate rights and franchises.

Sale Completed
The sales were started with Seymour and company making the purchases. The individual sales failed to satisfy the creditors until the Fox and Wisconsin Improvement company was entirely sold.

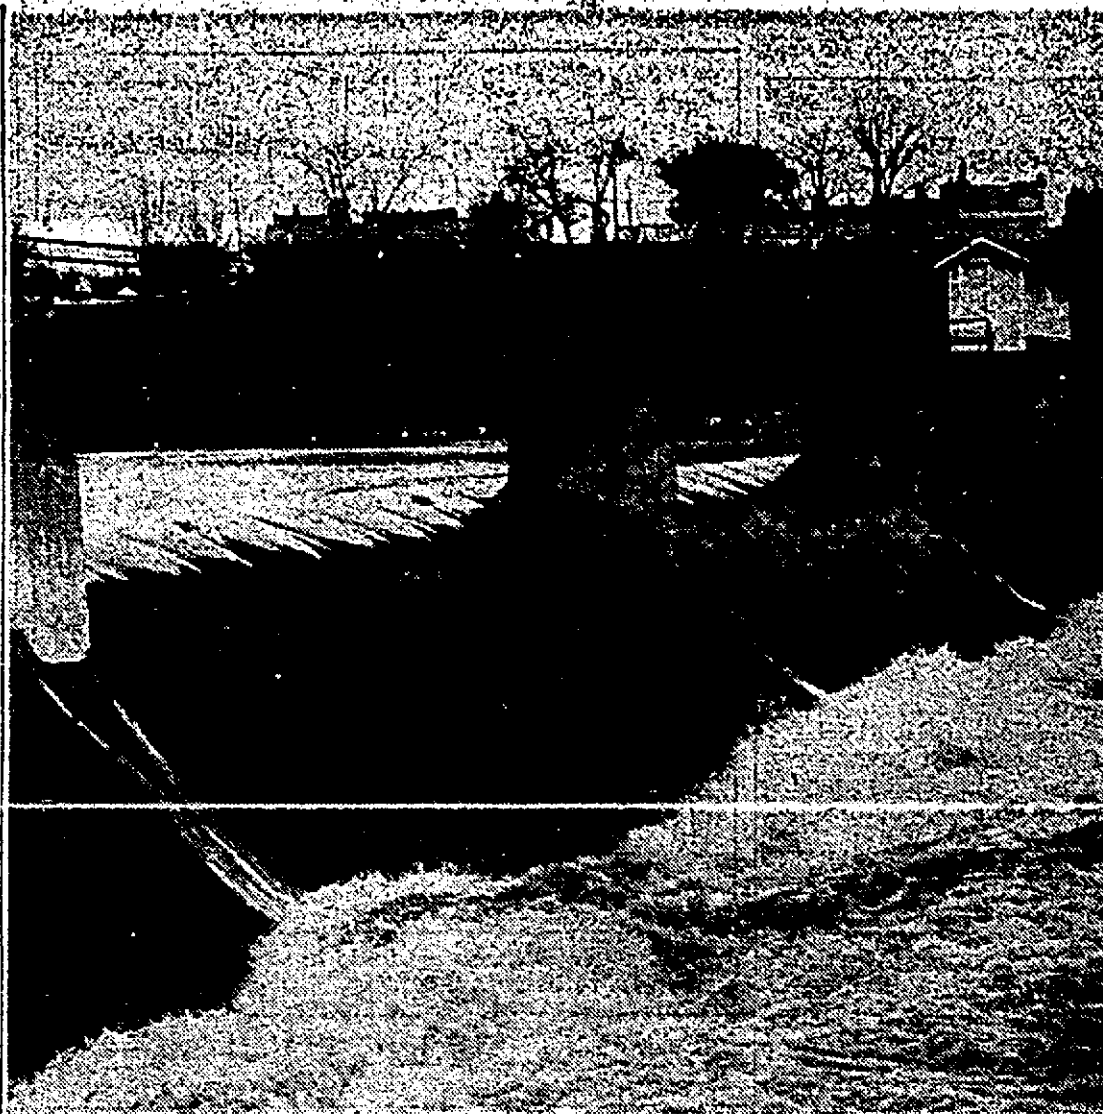

On July 28, 1866, the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company was incorporated to handle the old Fox and Wisconsin holdings and on Aug. 18, 1866, deeds were transferred to Green Bay and Mississippi of everything granted the Fox and Wisconsin along with the land contiguous and necessary for the operations.

The canal was operated from Menasha to Green Bay on a toll basis until Sept. 18, 1872, when the entire parcel with the exception of the rights of water in excess of that needed for navigation was sold to the United States government.

Lease Power
Green Bay and Mississippi was obligated to keep the power canals in repair along the Fox, with the exception of the Menasha and DePere holdings. For this it was allowed to lease the power and control the contiguous land necessary for its operation.

Almost all of the land has been sold, but the power leases are in effect at the upper and lower Appleton dams, the dam at Little Chute, the Rapids Croche below Kaukauna, Little Rapids and two dams at Kaukauna.

The company leased its power on 99-year leases to Western Condensing, Interlake and the Wisconsin Michigan Power company at Appleton, the Combined Locks Paper company and the Charmin mills at Little Rapids.

The oldest lease is with Combined Locks. It comes due in 1988. All the lease holders have the option for renewal.

With the exception of its dam at Combined Locks, Green Bay and Mississippi has ownership only in the power. The Kaukauna utility operates the two power plants at Kaukauna and the one at Rapids Croche the company owns.

Officers of Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company now are: John G. Strange, president; John Van Nortwick, Jr., a grandson of one of the founders, vice president; A. F. Krueger, secretary; treasurer; and Miss Catherine Nooyen, assistant secretary.

Lynn Kellogg Wins Contest
Humorous, Original Reading Best of Five at AHS

Lynn Kellogg, a junior at Appleton High school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kellogg, 1311 Lehmann lane, was named winner in the humorous declamation recital Thursday afternoon. She will have her name engraved on the AHS hall of fame plaque along with that of Barbara Casper, winner of the serious declamation recital last week.

Miss Kellogg was one of five girls participating in the humorous contest. Others were Judi Jones, Pat Mathews, Carol Moen and Ginger Springer.

Miss Kellogg's winning selection was an original piece she called "Person to Poison," a parody on television programs. Miss Kellogg told of interviews with a beatnik and a dramatic star and a visit to a television studio where there was a general tuning-in from one program to another, resulting in a humorous mix-up of a western, a football game, a plea for the Boy Scouts, a dramatization of the story "Little Red Riding Hood" and a foods program.

"Auntie Mame"

The story Miss Jones told was a cutting from "Auntie Mame" by J. Lawrence and R. E. Lee in which she characterized the almost impossible girl whom the nephew introduced as his fiancée.

Miss Moen, using the story "Eloise" by Kay Thompson, brought gales of laughter from the audience with her interpretation of the 6-year-old mischievous youngster whose antics and vivid imagination made her a nuisance in the hotel in which she lived.

The essay "How to Understand Music" by Robert Benchley which Miss Mathews chose had the subtle, sophisticated humor those familiar with the classical music could enjoy.

Pickup Trucks Meet At Corner, One Driver in Hospital

Pickup trucks driven by Thomas Zoelk, 24, of 1704 N. Appleton street, eastbound on Atlantic street, and Ernest H. Henke, 53, of 800 W. Glen-dale avenue, southbound on Lawe street, collided about 8:30 a.m. Friday at Atlantic and Lawe streets. Zoelk was taken by Larry's ambulance to Appleton Memorial hospital with minor injuries.

Zoelk told police he was turning left when the traffic signal changed and was too far into the intersection to stop. Henke said he started out when the light changed and thought Zoelk would stop.

Cars driven by Larry C. Workman, 22, of 1119 W. Winnebago street, eastbound on Winnebago, and Dr. Joseph L. Benton, 64, of 60 River drive, southbound on Bennett street, collided at Winnebago and Bennett streets about 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Workman complained of a bruised knee. Workman told police he stopped for a stop sign and entered the intersection. Dr. Benton's car skidded on ice, police said.
